Dear Crystal,

This is false complaint.

Is it illegal to falsify a compliant to the Federal Election Commission? If so will you hold the person who made the False compliant accountable Mr. Chris Paris?

You should hold the person who made the false compliant Chris Paris accountable.

Mr. Paris is suing me for defamation in the state of Florida. He has filed a false compliant Plainville police department. He has filed a false compliant the attorney general of CT and also the Attorney General of New York. He filed a false compliant against my wife in the state of CT.

I have all the false complaints and will provide it at your discretion

He filed a false compliant with the state of Florida alleging defamation.

Attached is records of Chris Paris's actions against me and my business for the last 6 years.

I have never officially announced my plans to run for Senate in the state of CT. I have never received any donations for the alleged campaign. (www.darylguberman.com) Where does is say I have announced my candidacy?

This link illustrates Mr. Chris Paris and his actions

: Introduction:

Oxebridge: The Self-Appointed Overseer of NOBODY

It's important for everybody to know Chris Paris is nothing more than a self-appointed overseer of ISO certification. In fact, I personally received an email from Randy Dougherty, Vice President of ANSI-ASQ American National Accreditation Board (ANAB), stating that he sees Chris Paris as nothing more than a self-appointed overseer of the ISO community, and thus, if this be true, has no authority whatsoever.

An investigation by the American Board of Accredited Certifications (ABAC), concluded that the primary objective of Chris Paris is to harm the reputation of independent certification bodies in an effort to force prospective customers toward his failing organization.

His modus operandi is clear: destroy anyone and anything that allows businesses to be certified and accredited by independent entities other than the ones that he alone promotes.

NOTE: Never forget businesses have every right to choose the certification and accreditation body of their choice for ISO certification. Don't be manipulated by this scam artist. All accreditation myths spun by Chris Paris have been debunked here: <http://aboac.org/accreditation-myths/>

Dear Ms. Boyce

I am writing you concerning one of your employees Mr. Christopher Mark Paris, who claimed at one time on his linkedin page to be employed by your business. Mr. Paris is defaming my company and said in several posts I am anti-Semitic and used my mother's death as a way to get business. <https://www.oxebridge.com/emma/daryl-guberman-compares-himself-to-gandhi-uses-own-mothers-death-to-promote-himself/> This had to do with former President Bill Clinton & Hillary (reference condolence letter and one of many person correspondence by the former President and first lady) being over my house in 1971 working in politics with my late mother Sylvia. May I ask does Pulse condone such deleterious verbiage from an employee? And if he is not employed with your company but uses it as a reference this does not bode well for your reputation?

<https://www.oxebridge.com/emma/?s=guberman>

I am kindly asking you to have him cease this disgusting display of disparaging dribble and vitriol and to have him remove this from his OXEBRIDGE.COM website. I look forward to hearing back from you concerning this matter.

Dear Randy,

You have allowed yourself to form conclusions about this entire IAF logo matter relying solely on the misinformation intentionally provided to you by the bankrupt, multi-name using provocateur who presently calls himself "Christopher Paris. It must truly delight him that you have fallen into his trap once again. I remind you that you owe it to Guberman PMC, LLC/G-PMC, LLC, and yourself to carefully examine the facts and the rules concerning the entire IAF logo matter, and toward that purpose I am now providing you with the information that the shady character "Paris" withheld from you to achieve his goal which is evident in the sorry state that you now find yourself – his dupe. Attached below is <https://www.oxebridge.com/downloads/candd.pdf> see: <http://www.clm.com/docs/yir2013.pdf> (page 24 concerning Oxebridge.com) From Carter Ledyard Milburn LLP concerning Mr. Paris and his perpetual usage of the ISO logo illegally on his website. As the Carter Ledyard Milburn LLP brochure also illustrates ANSI & ANAB utilized their assistance. This has always been his modus operandi. As you can plainly witness from this link Mr. Paris has the certification with the IAF and RENAR logos on his website as seen here: <https://www.oxebridge.com/emma/certificate-mill-operator-bought-iso-9001-certificate-from-another-certificate-mill-operator/> To appear to others as consistent, Randy, you should order Paris to remove this.

First, understand the facts. The IAF logo appeared on five certificates issued in error by Guberman PMC, LLC/G-PMC, LLC. This incident was an employee's mistake. There were 5 only certificates issued by Guberman PMC, LLC/G-PMC, LLC erroneously bearing this mark. When the mistake was discovered, a message was sent to Amplitech and the others (see attached document-Letter and revised certification) informing them of the oversight and directing them to destroy the certificate bearing the error and to replace it with the corrected certificate. You should examine the following attachment, while noting the dates and the content of the communications.

Once we officially notified Amplitech and furnished them with a corrected certificate, we had satisfied our responsibility in this matter, providing due diligence in correcting what was nothing more than an employee's mistake based upon their simple misunderstanding of our process of certificate issuance. No intention to misuse the IAF Logo was perpetrated, nor was this the result of a policy undertaken by our professional corporation. At this point in time the IAF Logo gaffe was exclusively a private matter between two corporations. It was presumed that Amplitech would follow our directive and take down the mistaken certificates. Once Amplitech was duly informed and provided with a corrected certificate, the responsibility of Guberman PMC, LLC/G-PMC, LLC in this matter ended. From this point forward it was/is the duty of Amplitech to see to it that they display and use in the relevant course of their company's business the corrected certificate furnished to them by Guberman, PMC, LLC/G-PMC, LLC. As far as we at Guberman, PMC, LLC/G-PMC, LLC are concerned this constituted the end of a private transaction between our two companies.

Now after the conclusion of this private corrective action, this "Paris" trolls into the matter and without understanding or caring about the underlying facts, which were exclusively the business of the two companies and not intended or disclosed to third parties, he proceeded to use this incident without authorization to defame Guberman PMC, LLC/G-PMC, LLC.

You are well aware of Paris' history and the fact that he is a troll and a disgrace to Quality Management. Having read much of his scalding appraisements of honorable persons in Quality it should not surprise you that he delights to cause trouble where he can do so. The great names of Quality, Shewhart, Deming, Juran, Feigenbaum, Crosby, and others were gentlemen and Quality professionals. Certainly, anyone who cares about their own reputation in contrast would not want to soil themselves by association with Paris and his inflammatory, irrelevant, offensive, and disruptive remarks as readily seen in his numerous essays and articles boldly and unashamedly written by him.

To rely on the word of a well-known Quality troll, and to try to show misconduct based upon a long train of abuses where there is none, to turn an employee's oversight that was, after discovery, promptly corrected in a private contact, is a leap of bad faith and poor judgment. Our customers were duly informed. We've met and continue to meet our responsibilities and we are proud of our pursuit of business under the inspiration and integrity of our family name. If you have any issues, surely they cannot in good conscience be with us. Our hands are clean of any wrong doing. We look forward to your apology to us in this matter and productive relationships with you in the future.

Cc: Daniela IONESCU <daniela.ionescu@renar.ro>, secretary@iaf.nu <secretary@iaf.nu>

Dear Mr. Guberman and Mr. Paris,

The purpose of this email is to communicate the results of an investigation of a complaint made by Christopher Paris regarding misuse of the registered marks of IAF (as well as of RENAR and GENERIC MANAGEMENT SERVICES PVT. LTD) by G-PMC, LLC and G-PMC GROUP, LLC., and to take exception to a recent electronic publication from you that misrepresents ANAB and IAF.

I am including Mr. Paris on this email in order to be transparent in what is communicated to you. I am making this communication to you because I was copied in on the complaint by Mr. Paris, and because I represent ANAB at IAF, and ANAB is a US accreditation body that is a signatory to the IAF MLA for QMS. I am also copying RENAR, the accreditation body in Romania that is an IAF MLA signatory for QMS and whose mark is on the certificates, and also the Secretary of IAF.

CHRIS PARIS -VP

As to the relationship of IAF or ANAB or myself to either of you, each of you are to us an “interested party” to accredited certification to management systems, and we have no other relationship to either of you.

The complaint from Mr. Paris included the following link, <http://www.g-pmc.com/wp-content/uploads/2016/01/GMS-RENAR-Certificate.jpg>, to an ISO 9001:2015 certificate allegedly issued to G-PMC Group, LLC by Generic Management Services Pvt. Ltd of Delhi, India. The certificate bears the mark of RENAR and IAF. However, a review of the website at <http://www.gmscert.com>” which is on this certificate, has the following statement: Notices Regarding Unauthorized Use of the RENAR Accreditation, IAF & GMS Symbol and Name A fraudulent ISO 9001:2015 certificate posted on the website "http://www.g-pmc.com/wp-content/uploads/2016/01/GMS-RENAR-Certificate.jpg" of organization name "G-PMC Group, LLC" is not issued by Generic Management Services Pvt. Ltd. GMS confirm that G-PMC Group, LLC is not certified by GMS & posted certificate is Fraud.

As this certificate is fraudulent according to the certification body, it is bearing the RENAR and IAF marks without authorization.

The complaint from Mr. Paris also included a copy of a certificate which is attached to this email. The certificate was issued to G-PMC, LLC to Amplitech Inc. for ISO 9001:2015 and bears the GMS, RENAR and IAF marks with authorization.

CHRIS PARIS -VP

As the RENAR and IAF marks are legally registered marks their use without authorization creates a risk for G-PMC, LLC and G-PMC GROUP, LLC.

I do not have the authority to decide and initiate any action by GMS, RENAR or IAF about this, but if action is not taken by you to cease the unauthorized use of these marks, I will be advising RENAR and IAF to initiate specific actions, which may include public notices of the misuse or legal action.

I have also become aware of a recent electronic communication from you, at http://www.einnews.com/pr_news/362382219/connecticut-ag-office-asked-to-investigate-connstep-for-alleged-business-defamation-and-mishandling-of-federal-funds . The article is dated January 17, 2017. In the article you state “The complaint addresses concerns of CONNSTEP allegedly using tax payer money to compensate staff engaging in business defamatory practices while promoting an anti-competitive accreditation scheme in collusion with ANSI-ASQ National Accreditation Board (ANAB®).” I take exception to this statement; it is incorrect and without any foundation in fact.

I also take exception to the next paragraph in this article which states: “Guberman said ANAB® leadership accepts and recognizes his accreditation body (ABAC™) and therefore, CONNSTEP should apologize for making misleading statements about certifications issued by G-PMC Group, LLC. The Vice President of ANAB® Randy Dougherty stated in a recent email to Guberman, “We recognize and accept that there are conformity assessment bodies and accreditation bodies, such as your body and your AB.”” What I actually wrote to you in an email on 14 November 2016 is the following: “But we recognize and accept that there are conformity assessment bodies and accreditation bodies, such as your body and your AB, that are not part of the IAF and ILAC structure. While my colleagues and I at ANAB can attest to confidence in the integrity and competence of CBs accredited by IAF member ABs, we cannot attest to this for your body. But we are also careful to not disparage your body...when asked we will simply respond that you are not accredited by ANAB or another IAF member AB.” You took my words out of context and by doing this misrepresented my statements to you.

I find it incredible that in one paragraph you falsely assert my body participating in an anti-competitive accreditation scheme and then in the next paragraph quote me and my body to justify and legitimize your body.

This electronic communication also includes a video “ISO Certification Myths and Scams”. This alleged newscast alleges a corruption, a pricing scam, industry scam and monopoly in the ISO certification process mentioning the “myth of ANAB accreditation”. Almost everything said in this video is incorrect and without basis in fact.

I am aware, from personal communications with you and separately from personal communications with Mr. Paris, that there may be legal disputes between the two of you. Both of you have published electronic communications about these disputes. Further, both of you have published electronic communications that are critical of IAF, ANAB and of me specifically. To the extent possible IAF, ANAB and me personally are limiting communications to either of you because with both of you, on occasion, our communications are taken out of context in order to best support your views and not accurately represent what we communicated to you. I cannot stop either of you from doing this. But I do request that if either of you wish to publish anything about this communication to you, that you publish it in its entirety.

Sincerely yours,

This does not bode well for your ASQ section 1503.

Please forgive the length of this letter but a bankrupt charlatan from Peru/Florida gave a speech to unaware individuals about quality, when he can't even run his own business. Fled the country to Lima Peru around 2013 after Carter Ledyard law firm went after him for using the ISO logo on his website.

Here is example of what Mr. Paris tries to do to companies other than yours.....

I have attached some information concerning Chris Paris and his troubling financial whoa's.

CHRIS PARIS -VP

I invited him, after finding out about his bankruptcy and his financial troubles to my house for Thanksgiving, in fact offering to pay for him and his spouse from Peru to CT I felt as a human being this would be a kind gesture. I heard nothing back. In fact I have attached him so he will probably say I gave him permission to publish this or that he will bring legal action against me.

If you look at his website, you will find just about on every article he finishes with " I am taking legal action"or " I am contacting the authorities"or " the authorities have been contacted" He has sued other parties who are trying to carve out a small piece of the pie. The frivolous cases, all have been tossed out of court. He spent so much monies on these cases he filed chapter 7.

Please look at this link below, we have all corroborating evidence- if u require it (Mr. Paris, had to drop two web-hosts for his activities of defamation this summer and for copy write infringement for materials on his website, as you can see from the Carter Ledyard case and copy write infringement ISO LOGO. Briefly describe your complaint:

Guberman's company, G-PMC LLC and The National Food Safety Council do not appear to be valid businesses, in that they are not registered or licensed in any state.

These companies offer "restaurant food safety inspection" certificates against a standard ("FSM 22000") which appears not to exist. They claim their "Food Safety Inspectors" are certified by the NY Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, and this claim also appears false. He also offers Kosher certifications.

Recently they certified two Staten Island restaurants and one in Manhattan:

www.restaurantmagazine.com/both-z-one-and-z-two-restaurants-achieve-fsm-22000-food-safety-certification www.einpresswire.com/article/273579779/new-york-city-restaurants-take-food-safety-to-a-higher-level-with-fsm-22000

Guberman's food inspectors are listed here, and none have related experience:

www.fsm22000.com/staff/

The so-called inspectors include a plastics inspector, an accountant, a telemarketer, and a retired radio operator.

The "accreditations" included in the resulting G-PMC certificates are all issued by equally dubious companies, owned by Guberman and featuring the same food inspectors as his board of advisors.

What form of relief are you seeking? (e.g., refund, credit, exchange, repair, etc.)

Investigation into the operation of Guberman and appropriate legal action for issuing counterfeit and fraudulent food safety inspection certificates, and for falsely advertising his food safety inspectors as being certified by NY Dept Health.

We found the whole thing in PACER and all of the documents are here: <http://oxebridge.co/Christopher-Mark-Paris-Bankruptcy/> We reviewed the documents and did note that he did not declare his business so technically he lied to the court in his bankruptcy filing.

That is giving us some satisfaction. We want to think about whether to proceed, and if so how.

I am contributing to other conversations, thank you. I regret you view my posts to you as gripes. As I said, I responded to your remarks and you responded to mine. When going off topic I was following you or another poster.

I am not sure what you view as horrific vitriol in my case, but will assuredly respond to subpoena if asked because I am not stalking you, defaming you or trying to harm you or your family. I am merely pointing out your errors for the benefit of readers who may not have the same extent of information on some of these subjects as you and I do.

Meanwhile, your presence is throughout LinkedIn's ISO 9001 boards so I question how I should avoid you here. I have, in fact responded to others and conversed with them when they respond to me. Your responses to me have merely been more frequent. You print a post, ask for discussion, respond to my posts, then I respond. You respond back, then I reply. That's how it works. It doesn't match the definitions of trolling I have reviewed. Sorry if you disagree.

I can't know how you wouldn't be aware of this, but you were named in the defamation and extortion lawsuit against Elsmar. Making matters worse, Smith then entered your previously private posts into the public record, showing you engaging directly in the alleged defamation. Then, equally inexplicably, Smith and his lawyers have demanded I provide evidence of how the Elsmar moderators have taken their campaign to other sites, such as LinkedIn. As a result, your posts are being printed out and added to the evidence. Whether or not they amount to harassment and defamation will be up to the jury, and whether or not you get deposed is yet to be seen, but you aren't doing yourself any favors by trolling me. I am not suggesting you stop participating in LinkedIn, however. Rather I am suggesting you broaden your participation so that it doesn't simply consist of you following my posts by making random, unverifiable criticisms and personal attacks. One would expect you to take a more cautious road for a few weeks while the lawsuit gets settled, rather than intentionally putting yourself in the crosshairs.

Christopher Paris We now know Paris "hacked" his own website.

A lot of people feel a lot of things. That's no reason for responsible adults to pick up pitchforks and storm the windmill, looking for a monster. It's also no reason for the current level of hate speech and illegal activity that some people are turning to. (My site was hacked last night, and now we have to launch a criminal investigation.)

We also know a criminal investigation never happened. I can just as easily say "no one donated to keep the site alive for YEARS, even though they were asked... what would you expect?" But that requires people to assess their own blame, rather than invent an imaginary villain. The villain makes it easier, even if it makes no sense vs the facts.

You are never going to make entitled people happy. They will always feel entitled to more.

I may call tomorrow or Friday. We have about 10 GB of documents (many of them are duplicates) which were on a hacked computer (long story). Court documents are only part of what we have. We have to vet some of the stuff we have and can't release it all. Let's just say a couple of us were on Elsmar for quite a few years and we're not happy about his attacks on people like Jack Fletcher, either. We'll feed you what we can. Some it is legacy stuff which shows how much Paris lies, such as his saying he did not shut down Elsmar. That pissed off a LOT of people. We figured you might be able to use some of it. We contacted Marc Smith and he wants to stay out of it. We have set up a website which we might use to put some of the stuff online.

One of the things we want to try to do is to kill off, as much as possible, attendance at his December "show" in Florida.

I do hope you read the hearing transcript.

Also note that they tried to keep everything sealed, but failed. That, of course, contradicts the attached LinkedIn post. There was no court order - Everything was in public court documents.

We're sifting through a lot of documents. You'll hear from us soon.

Great story, Barbara.

There will surely be some other forums that arise. If they are run by volunteers, people should consider donating. These sites often ask for donations for many years, and receive none, and have to go under. Many of the people who relied on sites like Elsmar need to ask what they did to help keep the sites alive, other than just consuming the content. We all love free stuff, but we shouldn't be surprised when someone shuts it down because it's too costly to keep running without donations. Little donations help.

(This doesn't apply to the O-Forum, which doesn't accept donations. I'm talking about some of the other forums that may open up, run by volunteers or retirees.)

Likewise, the google results are a self-perpetuating set of false claims and misinformation being spread by former advertisers, certification body reps and others who are trying to create controversy where there isn't any. They also keep claiming things as "fact" when they are not, nor could they actually know anything anyway.
Google just repeats whatever people put in it. Since the people with the truth are bound NOT to discuss it, the stuff on Google does not represent the truth.
So you can trust Google as much as usual, which is not at all.
I'm working on a way to have the case revealed entirely -- with the court's permission -- so we can stop the false rumor mongering, and identify the parties responsible for this new round of defamation. Won't be a pleasant day for them when that happens.

I am a little confused as how the article is not accurate? I agree with Brian, it didn't offer much information as to why he had to close it. I took it that it had to close because of a lawsuit and that he couldn't say why, "because of the settlement". I always love that saying when there are lawsuits. Like the truth won't come out eventually because the media will play their Freedom of Information Card. I know that I will miss that very informative website and the wealth of information that it had. I hope that we do find out what happened some day.

Let it Go, Let it Go.... SN9001 is Dead
Republished from my site [here.]

It had all the makings of a Disney film. A dashing hero, a beautiful princess, and lots of snowy mountains. Except that it had none of those things, actually. SN9001 was a cynical, craven attempt by the certification community to create a bull* standard out of thin air, and then dupe small, family-owned companies into paying for it. Fortunately, it didn't work.

The short history is that Jeanette Preston of registrar Smithers Quality Assessments got together with Scott Richter of ANAB and Kevin Gilbride of the American Snow Contractors Association (ASCA) to create a scheme that would trick snow management companies — those who clear streets and parking lots after snowstorms — into believing they wouldn't get by with just ISO 9001, they needed something far more expensive. So they dreamt up "SN9001" and dumped it onto the industry like a sudden, overnight snowfall. Then, they partnered with consultant John Allin to close the incestuous loop.

Thanks no doubt to the reporting by Oxebridge, SN9001 was dead on arrival. It was already facing controversy and disdain from an industry built largely of mom-and-pop landscaping companies that can't afford junk like this to begin with, but the gross missteps by Preston and Gilbride sealed its fate. Ignoring accreditation rules, with the wink-wink permission of ANAB itself, they overreached and failed to overcome industry suspicion, even by fibbing to the world and saying that SN9001 would reduce insurance premiums. (When it came out that lying about such things might result in felony insurance fraud charges, they suddenly cut off that angle of attack.)

Registrars never lined up to offer SN9001 certifications either, despite efforts by Preston to convince her fellow IAAR members to get on board. Perry Johnson Registrars and Orion showed interest, but Orion has since pulled out, and PJ hasn't actually pursued accreditation, leaving Smithers alone in the snowy wilderness. This arrangement puts ANAB in a tricky spot, since it can't enforce accreditation rules on Smithers; because there are no other SN9001 certification bodies, if ANAB were ever to de-accredit Smithers, it would face a class action lawsuit.

Now by all accounts, some two years after its launch, less than ten companies have pursued SN9001 certification. I wonder what the ROI was on this effort, given all the money ANAB and Smithers threw at this turkey.

When Oxebridge filed a complaint with ANAB alleging Smithers had colluded with consultant Allin in its marketing of SN9001, ANAB tripped and sent back a snarky email, openly revealing their slanted opinion. Now the issue may put ANAB owner ANSI in the hot seat with the US Congress, for failing to manage its irreverent daughter org. And even though it remains an utter failure, despite efforts by the Ed Paton media brothel to give it a sheen of legitimacy, the lessons of SN9001 may well live on for years to come.

For those not paying attention, here are those lessons:

- Don't invent crap standards that no one wants in order to suck money from small companies and put it into your pockets.
- Don't overcharge for QMS standards
- Don't issue accreditations to CBs who engage in this kind of behavior
- Don't dilute the value of ISO 9001 by creating competing schemes
- Don't co-market certification services with consultants
- Don't lie about ISO certifications affecting insurance premiums

In short, don't be an idiot.

All I'm reading is some opinion with a few links to more opinion written by yourself.

How about some facts.

And stop calling anyone who endorses SN9001 an idiot. Which I'm pretty sure is a violation of forum rules.

Hmm. I was thinking it would be a good accreditation to pursue. Of course my idiocy could be clearer if I was a pro blogger and not just a professional lawn boy. You know, those mom and pop lawn companies.... crappy management, broke equipment and finances, ran by stupid folks that are easy prey. Don't even get me started on the redneck siblings that plow snow for these crummy companies. Heck, most do it for beer money and collect welfare all summer. At least I know I do. Sheesh, how could I even pass that damn test.

Re: Let it Go, Let it Go.... SN9001 is Dead

So the ASCA, Smithers, John Alin, ANAB and ANSI put us all in a trick bag? Our industry is such a joke that it doesn't really deserve to have Industry Standards and its own specific QMS? We could have just rolled with ISO the way it was written? And there isn't a major insurance company out there that has announced discounts to those who have achieved their SN9001 designation?

Jeez Chris, how do you intend on getting us out of this mess?

You're not going to commit a smash & grab thread and just leave us again, are you? I like the fact that you're on the clock, and you're looking out for the best interest of all of us losers who are performing snow and ice management work.

Why doesn't Troy Clogg Landscaping have SN9001 certification, if it's such a fan?

Your industry may well need industry standards, but they should be developed by a robust, collaborative grouping of industry-wide representatives, and not a few individuals -- most of whom had not snow and ice experience at all (Gilbride, Preston, Richter) -- with their own personal motives in play.

Re: Let it Go, Let it Go.... SN9001 is Dead

My experience is in standards development, the exact problem in question here.

I am curious as to why a tiny minority within the S&I industry are so willing to give a free pass to people without any experience who then create an expensive and dubious scheme such as SN9001, but then challenge the credentials of the critics of the scheme?

Why didn't you ask Gilbride how a publishing executive came to know so much about snow and ice? Or Richter? Or Preston?

You don't apply the same arguments to those COSTING the industry tens of thousands of dollars a pop, but you apply them to the guy pointing out the problem. Hmm.

Hey Chris, you do realize that there are snow companies out there doing several millions, even 10's of millions, worth of snow service each winter right?

And that there are thousands of companies out there which are ISO900x certified? Doesn't it make sense to you that these companies would like to do business with snow companies which have demonstrated that they are not some Podunk guy with a plow truck plowing for beer money?

Sexist AND racist? I suppose the moderators here are fine with that kind of behavior. Great community you guys have. This one's getting screencapped.

Image, the point is that if S&I companies wanted ISO 9001 they could pursue it without the incredible and dubious extra expense of SN9001. ISO 9001 is a generic standard, for any industry, and is used by manufacturers, software developers, law firms, hospitals, schools, police departments, and everything in between. There was never anything so special about the S&I industry that it required additional, expensive add-ons that the rest of the world didn't need. That such a scheme was invented by people utterly outside of your industry should have raised the same alarm bells that your posters are raising here. Maybe without the idiotic racist BS, of course.

I do realize there are many large S&I companies, but I also realize they comprise the minority. They may have comprised the MAJORITY of potential revenue to ASCA and Smithers, had this scheme panned out, but it didn't.

I hadn't realized the demographics of the industry revealed that the only two options were million-dollar massive enterprises, or drunks with plows. Perhaps you can show me that research.

since I am a idiot plow jockey. I don't have a dog in this fight. I like the fact that they are trying to change the

S&I to have standers. Chris for every plow jockey out there doing it the wright way. there are 2 doing it for beer money. that is a fact just look at what they are charging to drop there blade. I have never seen you or talked to you. i have talked to a few S&I companies about getting standers. and most of them would like to have them. And to push out the guy plowing for beer money. I don't work for Ascaexc It is getting harder and harder to make money in my town. With all the guy plowing for $35.00 an hr.

Could I do ISO as a one man band no. would it be good for me to have it for my size no.

If I recall, insurance companies weren't willing to offer a discount for ISO9001. Which apparently demonstrates the value of that cert. But I could be wrong since I'm just a bible thumping parking lot cowboy.

I'm curious as to why the folks here keep denigrating themselves and their industry. "Bible thumping parking lot cowboy"... "idiot plow jockey" "podunk guy doing it for beer money." Is this what you think of yourselves and your industry? Incredible.

My "idiot" comment was clearly directed at the people trying to take your money by selling you a $20K + certification scheme. It wasn't directed at the users of such standards. So I'm not sure where all this self-hatred is coming from.

As for the insurance, Mills Insurance has NOT offered a discount for SN9001. Gilbride falsely made the claim, and Mills half-heartedly supported the IDEA, but never came through on a promise.

The reason that no insurance company every offered a discount for ISO 9001 is that no insurance company wants to go to jail for insurance fraud, for falsely claiming the standard could reduce premiums when it is impossible.

I get that you guys are having a full-on hero crush on Gilbride, but he's just a savvy marketer and a magazine publisher. He didn't crack the code for how to create standards in a way that somehow trumped the work of NASA, General Motors, Siemens, Toyota or any of the other huge industry players who have been working in the standards game decades before Gilbride "discovered" it. The SN9001 has failed, and your industry should be grateful for that. Had it succeeded, it would have simply resulted in a handful of large mega-scapers taking over the business from the mom-and-pops, destroying the industry the same way Wal-Mart wipes out corner grocery stores. And the only one benefiting would have been ASCA, ANAB and Smithers, none of whom would be giving a penny back to the industry.

The question now is whether Kevin Gilbride will come forward and denounce the racist, sexist hate speech on full display here, which is posted with the full support of this site's management. Now ASCA gets tarred with that brush. If not, how much damage will this do to ASCA's standing with ANSI, who tends not to like that kind of stuff very much.

Chris,

Have you ever directly answered a question in your life? <<<<btw, that's a question! can you answer it?
 Several simple questions have been asked, particularly by me, that you have chosen to ignore. Or maybe you lack the skills/knowledge/confidence/ability to answer.

Here's at least a partial recap of my questions which I would love to see answers for:
 How many degrees do you have?
 Who paid for these degrees?
 How much experience do you have in Snow and Ice removal? How about the insurance industry, particularly liability?
 Do you know anything about winches? Right angle trigonometry?

And a few new ones:
 What's your IQ?
 Are you employed by a company on a full time basis?
 Are gas or Diesel engines better for plowing?

I challenge you to answer these questions. It would greatly improve your credibility amongst the doubters.

Or maybe I should just dare you.....

I have already answered your questions, and already underwent the same questions from the same players back in 2013. I am a standards development professional, and that is my angle of approach.

But, if you want to play, I can ask the same questions of you, then:

How many international standards committees have you sat on?

How many international standards have you written?

How many management system certification audits have you attended?

What is the average price of a management system certification?

See how it works? Better yet, why haven't you ever asked these questions of the folks asking you to drop tens of thousands of dollars on a certification scheme and the surrounding standards?

CHRIS PARIS -VP

Daryl et al,

As the evidence below proves, you and your organization have agreed to provide ISO 9001 certification services to a fictional company that, according to the documentation provided to you, designs cement life jackets and measures the product's quality by testing "fatalities." The data provided to you indicated that objects in water can both sink and rise at the same time, which is impossible under the laws of physics. The documentation included various other clues that no one in your organization could suss out, including that the management meeting was held on "April 31st" (there are only 30 days in April), that the Quality Manager's name was "Jack T Pozzolan" (pozzolan is another word for cement, so this literally meant "cement jacket"), the VP of Engineering had a name that sounded like "Sandy Bottoms," the company's name was "LifeSink" and the product was called "TruSink." The properties of the "SolidCore 2.0" inner lining included cement (silicates and ferrites) and lead shot, and yet the photo was of a life jacket. The principle of "negative buoyancy" discussed in the documentation literally means sinking.

Nevertheless, despite your claims to comply with 17021, your organization agreed to provide services to a company you could not verify was real, that allegedly sold products designed to kill the user, based on principles that a middle school science student could have told you do not exist.

This test has been submitted to a number of properly accredited registrars, as well as a number of unaccredited (or, in your case, self-accredited) certificate mills. So far, in all cases, the properly accredited organizations refused to provide services, while 100% of the certificate mills agreed to do so.

This proves that accreditation works to keep the public safe, and that unaccredited/self-accredited mills pose a direct and immediate danger to the public. It also proves that the IAF matrixed accreditation scheme works, and that organizations such as yours working outside of that matrix do not comply with ISO 17021, no matter what they say in their marketing materials, making a case for serious deceptive advertising practices and fraud under both state and FTC trade rules.

In your case, the problem is exacerbated by your intentional misrepresentation of "requirements" which imply that not only the fictional company LifeSink would need certification by your organization, but all of its suppliers as well. This appears to be yet another serious violation of accreditation rules, as it constitutes an unethical -- and possibly illegal -- coercive attempt to generate additional business for your company through intentional misrepresentation of requirements.

My organization has no financial or other ties to any accredited certification body, ANAB or any IAF accreditation body whatsoever, and we are prepared to prove this in court. These actions are taken in the public interest, to highlight the risks, dangers and possibly illegal actions of certificate mills, and to advocate for their becoming accredited by objective third parties to international standards. This is not an attempt to put the mills out of business, but instead to "get them legal." Furthermore, this experiment will be submitted as evidence in upcoming testimony before state and federal officials, calling for increased legislation of unaccredited, or self-accredited, certificate mills.

Jack -

I pulled into a rest stop to give you a preliminary report. Jim called me to the corporate office in Massachusetts to discuss schedules for customers, new certifications and surveillance audits and your company. I have a VERY- busy July-August.

I will number the discussion topics-

1- subcontractors should be ISO certified supplying Lifelink materials. Either by G-PMC, LLC or other. (need to submit this to us) If the company requires certification, We can of course assist.

2- Materials need to be ROHS compliant- (need to verify materials) Especially if a the products are made all over the world -China especially.

CHRIS PARIS -VP

3- Any special processes (anodize, prime, vulcanizing, cadmium plating , heat treat, etc. required certification of said process.

4- Product and facility requires onsite visit.

We discussed pricing which would be inclusive of travel, this would include 2 representatives, 1- to evaluate documentation and the other observe to insure the ISO 9001 system matrix is followed.

The approximate cost I spoke to Agatha about - She handles all quotes, because your company is "virtual" as you called it. She is still working out the numbers.

Jim called me late last night for this mornings meetings. His travels have really made the business expand in many areas.

Let me know if you would be able to supply the information and if items 1-4 are doable?

I told you I would get back to you on Monday. I like to be a man of my word.

The Thomas Payne thing isn't going to work. You are leaving significant forensic evidence behind to trace these back to you, along with the "anonomousASQ" emails and RR posts. I advise you and LaBelle to have your stuff looked over by your attorney, as they are likely to counsel you on how your actions are bad, bad ideas that can only get you in trouble. As you can see, I don't tolerate this kind of thing, and there's no hiding behind any anonymous email provider or website that will work.

FYI: I won the case on the grounds of jurisdiction. I didn't lose it. The rest of your post was also libelous as it presented false data as fact, so you will be held accountable. You're just lucky that Marc is going first.

Or is he?

About Me

1 Daryl Guberman - Chris Paris, Owner of Oxebridge Goes On A Bizzare and Sad Rant of Threats

As per the Daryl Guberman, the owner of Oxebridge Quality Resources is seriously losing it lately, and it's rather concerning. Today, he went on a bizarre rant accusing everybody he can think of including Daryl Guberman for his unfortunate business failings. It appears reality is closing in on Chris, and he's left with few options after years of engaging in business defamation campaigns against his competitors.

Click here to see a bizarre, uncontrollable rant posted by Chris, which shows he could be losing all sense of reality.

As you all know, I (Daryl Guberman), have been a target of Paris for 6 years now. However, Daryl Guberman have come to the unfortunate conclusion that he is an envious person with serious psychological issues. People like Chris Paris are always their worst enemy because they can't deal with the success of other people. His website Oxebridge.com is nothing more than character assassination articles and smear campaigns on his competitors and successful businesses people involved in the quality community. His modus operandi is simple. He steals the photograph of his competitors, and writes extremely negative comments about them, twisting the truth to ruin their credibility and reputation. Think about it... how many legitimate businesses owners spend their day attacking their competitors? More importantly, who in their right mind would do business with such a person? Unquestionably for Chris, his own reputation is now ruined. And he has only himself to blame.

Chris I (Daryl Guberman) know you are reading this. Please get the help you need. I'm not being sarcastic, you really do need help. Although you have been attacking me for 6 years on your website — I have found it in my heart to forgive you. After all, you are a fellow human being, and I really believe you may need help. It's not something to be embarrassed about, we all go through difficult times in life. It concerns me that your depressive behavior and paranoia is reaching a dangerous level. Your latest rant and threats are very troubling. Get help, please!

Sincerely,
Daryl Guberman

Mr. LaBelle:

There seems to be a problem with my account. We released a press release yesterday to announce how Oxebridge was voted "Top ISO Consulting Firm in the World," but the story has since disappeared, and a refund was issued to my PayPal. Don't worry too much, though, I did screencap it and intend on releasing it through some other PR distribution services, most of which I learned about through Mr. Daryl Guberman.

Nevertheless, I have reviewed the IndustrialPR.net Terms of Service, and nothing in the press release violated those terms in spirit or in fact. If I am wrong, please point to the specific violations.

It's curious because our story appears to be as legitimate as the story you ran regarding Mr. Guberman being voted, by your company, as the Top ISO Expert Nationwide, a story that has appeared more than once through your network. In that story you allege that a voting process took place and Mr. Guberman came out on top over 147 firms. Since you have provided no evidence that this voting ever occurred, I suspect that story is as valid as the one where I allege that I was elected to a far greater position, that of World's Best ISO Consultant in the Entire World. And King of Earth.

Needless to say, as King of Earth, I am a little upset that my reign is off to such a poor start.

Of course, if you can provide any evidence that this voting of Mr. Guberman actually occurred, that would go a long way to proving that your story was factual and certainly make mine look more fanciful. I would need to see, specifically, the names of the other 146 firms, and the vote tally. Without that, it appears that IndustrialPR.net is publishing science fiction, and only that which benefits its business partners. That could cause some problems with your reputation, if it were to get out.... say, through a paid press release service operated by a competitor. Because as you and Mr. Guberman well know, if it appears in a press release, it must be true.

If I have misunderstood, and it's all a technical glitch, please restore my account, and the press release. We can't let the world suffer in darkness without knowing of my greatness.

DMCA COUNTER CLAIM - REVISED

This is a revised DMCA Counter Claim, to replace that filed on May 3, 2015; this revision was prompted by the receipt of update information; the previous Counter Claim is hereby withdrawn

This letter is written in response to your notification to me of a complaint received about my web page, as documented by you under Support Ticket number 1039591. The page in question is:

<https://www.oxebridge.com/emma/fact-checking-daryl-gubernans-arm9009-firearms-standard-claims/>

The claims of copyright violation should be rejected because the complainant does not hold the copyright to the material in question, is not the designated representative of the copyright holder, and therefore lacks standing to assert that my use of the material is a violation of any of the owner's rights.

The complainant is not the "photographer" as alleged in the complaint. At the time the photograph was taken in 2013, the photograph was produced by Time Square Squared through a partnership with Reuters and PRNewswire, whose logo can be seen in the contested photo. The HD webcam still operates under new ownership by Branded Cities Network LLC of Phoenix AZ, and can be seen through its live feed here:

http://timessquare2.com/webcams_hd.html

The photo named by the complainant was taken by their automated webcam as part of a paid press release service. This has been verified by Branded Cities and PRNewswire, and additional examples of these photographs may be viewed at the following URLS:

Furthermore, my use of the material is legally protected because it falls within the "fair use" provision of the copyright regulations, as defined in 17 USC 107. If the complainant disagrees that this is fair use, they are free to take up the matter with me directly, in the courts. You, the ISP, are under no obligation to settle this dispute, or to take any action to restrict my speech at the behest of this complainant. Furthermore, siding with the complainant in a manner that interferes with my lawful use of your facilities could constitute breach of contract on your part.

I have not heard back from you on this matter. Please let me know if there is someone else within NOSCO I should be contacting.

It's furthermore been discovered that Mr. Oliver is now lending his signature as "Credentialing Director, Director of Audit Programs" for a certification called PR9001, for publicity firms. One such certificate has appeared online, here. It is also a product of G-PMC and ABAC.

It is therefore unclear how Mr. Oliver has time to perform all these duties and simultaneously work for NOSCO. Again, it could well be that his name is being used without his permission.

Please advise.

I am requesting the appropriate contact in your Legal or HR department to discuss the following matter.

Your Carrollton TX Quality Manager, Jack Oliver, appears simultaneously as an Advisory Board member for G-PMC, an Advisory Board member of ABAC, and a Food Safety Inspector for the National Food Safety Council. This is problematic because:

1. None of the organizations actually exist, in that they are not legally registered in the states they operate
2. The organization G-PMC claims independent accreditation from the others, but they share the same ownership and advisors, such as Mr. Oliver, in violation of international accreditation rules
3. All the organizations are under investigation for fraud in Connecticut for having begun to issue suspect food safety certificates to restaurants

G-PMC issues self-accredited certificates for everything from ISO 9001 to medical marijuana, medical implants, Kosher foods, aircraft component manufacturing, restaurant inspections, minority woman-owned business, and veteran-owned businesses. The certificates then allege "independent" accreditation by the other two organizations, but all three share the same management, in violation of international accreditation rules. Mr. Oliver then appears as complicit in all these activities.

It is not clear why a QA Manager from your company would simultaneously appear on the staffs of these three organizations. It is also not clear, given that Mr. Oliver has no experience in food safety, as to how he can conduct Food Safety audits of any kind. We are in discussions with the Connecticut Attorney General's office about this, as there is a concern the public's health is at risk.

G-PMC routinely issues suspect certificates to any company willing to pay. In one case, G-PMC issued a firearm manufacturing certificate which alleged compliance to a standard that the client admitted they had never seen, because G-PMC admitted it had not even been written. In another case, G-PMC agreed to provide ISO 9001 certification to a fictional company that claimed to produce life vests made of cement, designed to kill the wearer. G-PMC itself boasts a bogus ISO 9001 certificate from Romania, which lists its address as a PO Box, and claims it to be a full manufacturing company, not a certification body.

It's not clear why NOSCO would want its employees involved in this network of suspect behavior.

Please confirm that Mr. Oliver has allowed his image and name to be used by these organizations, and let me know what action, if any, NOSCO intends to take. If Mr. Oliver has been victimized, or if NOSCO otherwise agrees, I can connect you with the appropriate contact within the CT Attorney General's office who is investigating this network.

Subject: linkedin chrissy

Here is the linkedin link indicating he is a senior member of ASQ <http://www.linkedin.com/pub/christopher-paris/1b/703/2a8>
 It looks like Chrissy is going after Steve, but only as an "unaccredited registrars". Here you and Steve share the page along with other "unaccredited registrars"... http://www.oxebridge.com/emma/?page_id=1504

So Paris accused you of using your mom, but yet he is using poor children from Peru to promote himself. Go to bottom of this page and see his photo holding a poor Peru girl http://www.oxebridge.com/emma/?page_id=1317

It gets better. I found this about Paris indicating how he is a struggling ISO consultant, Disney Haunted Mansion afficianado, leftist moonbat and former Communist Party member Christopher Paris (also known as Mark Spittle and the superhero, 'Blackstar') — accused me of being responsible for (get this) the destruction of the mailbox in front of his house in Florida! You can't make this stuff up.... According to a post on his site, Paris recently chased down and harassed the driver of a construction truck who allegedly cut him off while he was driving. Then he wrote a predictably nasty article on the Florida-based contracting company that owned the vehicle, publishing it on his Spittle and Ink website. Read more here <http://theautonomist.wordpress.com/2006/08/23/christopher-paris-owner-of-oxebridge-quality-resources-aka-mark-spittle-the-case-of-the-wrecked-mailbox/>

Now I know from experience that men in the construction business don't take kindly to nasty, freaky man-children like the Disney-worshipping Paris. Still, the contractors that Paris abused probably had nothing to do with wrecking the mailbox—one of Florida's numerous octagenarian drivers probably did.

Nevertheless, when you delight in tormenting, harrassing and abusing people like Christopher Paris a/k/a/ 'Mark Spittle' does, paranoia must play a large role in your day-to-day existence. No doubt, Christopher Paris a/k/a Mark Spittle has many enemies, most notably his self. (Talk about a rat chewing on its own tail. . .)

I told you this guy is insane! Donnie

Mark Spittle: An alias of Christopher Paris — owner of Oxebridge Quality Resources and a Leftist Superhero Extraordinaire!

Ultimate Goofball: Christopher Paris, the real “Mark Spittle” with his Disney ‘friends’ at the “Haunted Mansion” source: www.hauntedmansion.info (another website owned by “Mark Spittle”)

Anyone offering their political opinions on the internet is subject to the occasional death threat, or nasty email or personal attack from disturbed types who find cyberworld a safe place to vent rage, exercise personal kinks or exorcise personal demons. Most of these people are harmless, impotent cranks with too much time on their hands, who do no real harm. But some are so obsessive, persistent and focused on harassment—or worse—that they demand exposition and retaliatory action.

Readers of this blog might remember the frustrated wanna-be communist, ‘John Brown,’ of the website ‘Savage Justice.’ I banned ‘Brown’ so many times that I lost count. And in between bans, he’d harass me with crazy emails. I finally contacted the people who had provided him with server space — (a trustafarian-inhabited quasi-commie ‘commune’ called the “Emma Goldman Finishing School”) — and informed them of Brown’s not-so-peace-loving activities on their server. Coincidentally or not, his obsession with me ended almost immediately thereafter.

Prior to that saga was the strange case of the professor from a Well Known Mid-Atlantic University. The ‘professor’ (yes, he was tenured), had an extreme obsession with me. Day and night I would receive his disturbed emails. And no matter how often I banned him from commenting on this site he’d find a computer (usually on the campus he worked on) to log into from in order to bypass the bans and leave unwanted comments. After months of his nonsense, I emailed him a cordial letter strongly urging that he stop.

When that failed I took time to find out who he was, contacted him and informed him that unless he quit his obsession I’d complain to his academic superiors about it. I never heard from him again.

Now, there’s a leftist blogger who publishes under the pseudonyms “Mark Spittle” and “Epstein Llewelyn.” “Spittle/Llewelyn” currently runs a venomous little far-Left blog called ‘SpittleandInk.com from his basement in Tampa, Florida. On it he has seen fit—in his trademark foul and abusive style—to personally malign and libel my wife and her art business. He has been contacted twice and been asked to remove the libelous material from his site. He has—so far— not done so.

In preparation for what is now to come, I did some research on ‘Mark Spittle’ to find out who he really is. What I found is creepy, pathetic and also hilarious. Mark Spittle’s story is also interesting, in the sense that it provides a glimpse into the whimpering soul of someone who is as wretched, mean, unaccomplished and tormented as he is lonely and pathetic. It is also interesting since 'Spittle' is that rare breed of political blogger who is almost as disliked by his leftwing compatriots as he is by the Right.

<http://theautonomist.wordpress.com/2006/08/05/mark-spittle-an-alias-of-christopher-paris-owner-of-oxebridge-quality-resources-and-a-leftist-superhero-extraordinaire/>

An internet search shows 'Mark Spittle' to be an incredibly prolific troll—one who skips from rightwing blog to leftwing blog and back again, leaving often vile, almost always inflammatory comments on them. Few of the major rightwing internet sites have escaped a visit or two (or more) from him. Same for many on the Left. Curiously, his blog is still linked to a few leftwing sites including the popular Liberal Oasis. He has also appeared on the leftwing DailyKos.

Rightwing blogs, bloggers, writers, and cartoonists including Michelle Malkin, Chris Muir, Matt and Aaron Margolis of 'Blogs for Bush' and 'Pardon My English,' the Objectivist Francois Tremblay, the leftwing blogger Chris Bowers of MyDD.com, the popular leftwing Daily Kos and myself (to name a few) have all been targets of his obsession, jealousy, abuse and harrassment. Spittle has a particular obsession with the popular writer, blogger and news personality Michelle Malkin. He often attacks her by making vile, gross sexual comments about aspects of her anatomy.

Between the time he spends tormenting other bloggers, creating vile, unfunny cartoons, calling Michelle Malkin vile names, exhibiting a fascination with feces, telling sophomoric 'dick jokes,' threatening to "piss on conservative cartoonist Chris Muir's cheek," expressing deep-seated disdain for homosexuals by calling people 'queers,' 'polepuffers,' 'spunkplungers' and other homophobic slurs, dabbling on his 'MySpace' site and inhabiting 'gamer' sites where he torments fellow forum members, it is amazing that Mr. 'Spittle' has found the time to live the life of a superhero.

Yes, that's right — when not spewing hate-filled leftist claptrap on SpittleandInk.com or taunting and abusing people as the faux movie critic, 'TheFacer' on his now-defunct website of the same name, 'Mark Spittle,' — that intrepid leftist provocateur — battles his personal demons and otherworldly evil as:

BLACKSTAR!

Yes, I fell down laughing when I discovered the archives of Mark Spittle's now-defunct superhero blog. And I almost croaked when I discovered that Spittle is also a huge fan of the sci-fi outer-space series, 'Millenium.' Spittle (in the guise of 'Blackstar,' has his very own members' page on the 'Millenium' (an outer-space movie series) website. He describes himself thusly:

"Hi there. My name is BlackStar and I just started writing a blog about my life. I don't pretend that it's particularly interesting or anything, but I am a superhero, so maybe you guys might like it."

CHRIS PARIS -VP

<http://theautonomist.wordpress.com/2006/08/05/mark-spittle-an-alias-of-christopher-paris-owner-of-oxebridge-quality-resources-and-a-leftist-superhero-extraordinaire/>

Oh yeah, I fly and shoot lasers out of my eyes. I know, it's not much, but it's better than the stuff that Hat-Man or The Shuffler does. My site is at www.BlackStarsBlog.com. It's ad-free, just for fun. I will add a talkback section if people want."
OK, gotta run. Check it out. Or not.

BlackStar "

Spittle/Blackstar/Facer is also a huge comic book fan and alternative music aficionado with a long-standing obsession with the once-popular rock star, Morrisey. It is noteworthy that on his now defunct 'Blackstar's Blog' site he links to a single Morrisey album cover, titled "Tormentor."

Oh, I forgot to mention something: In real life, BlackstarA/K/A 'The Facer' A/K/A 'Mark Spittle' A/K/A Lord-knows-who-or-what-else, is a 42 year old man.

Enjoy the following passages from the now-defunct "Blackstar's Blog," (who said leftists were moonbats?) Grip the edge of your chair as you read where Blackstar/Spittle recovers from a battle with the evil 'Steelmen,' and ponders a visit to California to become a movie star:

"I've decided I'm going to California. I sent a note over to Captain Commander to take over my crime fighting here in Carlinville after I'm gone. I probably should have called him on the phone, but I really don't like talking to him. He's so freakin' pompous.

I think I'll leave in a few weeks. I'm in the middle of this big struggle with the Steel Men again, and not getting much sleep these days. Plus every time I land a punch on one of them, I get all these little metal shavings in my hand which hurt like the dickens for a week. Anyway, I want to make sure I wrap up that fight before heading out of town. I'm pretty excited though. I hope something comes through for me in LA." (It appears that Spittle/Facer/Blackstar did in fact travel to Los Angeles a few years ago seeking fame and fortune—and returned home to Tampa with neither.)

Didn't grab you? How about the following passage, where Blackstar/Spittle ponders the existence of a villain called the 'KillerStain': (Star Wars-type background music, please. . .)

*"October 17, 2003
 I'm beginning to think this KillerStain guy is a fake, just someone pretending to be a super villain. I've heard of people pretending to be someone different on the internet because it allows complete anonymity, but I never actually figured anyone would do it. Weird. Get a life, people! From now on, unless I see a building being toppled by a psychic blast force, or a giant robot destroying the Carlinville coffee house, I'm not going to believe anyone is a super villain."*

Still unimpressed with Mark Spittle's (oops, I mean Blackstar's) adventures? How about this following genuinely creepy — (and in my opinion autobiographical) — passage:

CHRIS PARIS -VP

<http://theautonomist.wordpress.com/2006/08/05/mark-spittle-an-alias-of-christopher-paris-owner-of-oxebridge-quality-resources-and-a-leftist-superhero-extraordinaire/>

October 3, 2003

"My birthday. Spent it alone in the apartment with BeeBee[Blackstar/Spittle's puppy]. Had a great time in retrospect. Turned 39. [when this was written Spittle was in fact 39 years old] is that old? Not sure. I know my body doesn't work like it used to. It's harder to get up in the morning, and I'm flying much slower than when I was 16. Gotta leave more time in the mornings when flying off to a crime scene. Sometimes leave the house without showering, which I hate. Nothing worse than spending a whole day stinky.

Still no word on the anonymous villain. Beginning to think it was a goof. Fought the Octopus yesterday. Kicked major butt. Captain Commander showed up and took the credit. I'd like to slap him, but whatever.

Really starting to take stock of my life. 39 and spending my birthday alone? This is lame. Wish I had some superpower that could get a woman to wink at me once in a while. Well, the upside is that I don't have to worry about diseases, I guess. No chance of that!" [Emphasis added]

Nope, no chance of that is right. But what is the chance that the following passage, written by Spittle under the alter-ego-superhero-pseudonym of "Kevin Phoenix," is autobiographical?:

"Far too long have I sat in the shadows, watching Blackstar's ramblings! It's gotten to the point where it has made me sick just looking at it! But then, if it makes me feel such a way then why would I subject myself to it? It's quite simple...Blackstar was my partner! My name is Kevin Phoenix. But unlike him, I have no freak superpowers. I have something far greater than that. but I'll get to that soon enough. First, I want to bring a little history to light.

You see Blackstar...oh I know his real identity, but I'm going to enjoy hanging that over his head. He may not admit it, but he really values his privacy. But anyway, before the accident, me and him were not just partners. We were the best of friends. I always had his back in a crunch just as he had mine. Then one day, it all changed when the accident that gave him his powers occurred. I wasn't with him when it happened obviously. When he got back, he wasn't the same. And I don't mean just his newfound powers, but also his personality. He suddenly acted like I didn't even exist anymore. Suddenly I was an inconvenience to him!

I since vowed to wreak vengeance in the worst possible way. To kill him, nay. He doesn't deserve such a mercy! To reveal his true identity? Let's just say that I'm going to enjoy holding that over his head while he spends every waking moment in the back of his mind fearing if I'll let the cat out of the bag. I have gained my own special ability. But it wasn't from some power-endowing freak accident. I have always resented anyone who falls under that category, which makes my hatred for Blackstar [self?] all the more prominent.

<http://theautonomist.wordpress.com/2006/08/05/mark-spittle-an-alias-of-christopher-paris-owner-of-oxebridge-quality-resources-and-a-leftist-superhero-extraordinaire/>

I have taken it upon myself to study and perfect the fine art of computer literacy [note: Spittle is in real life proficient in writing XML code, at least.] I may not be able to fly or shoot energy beams...yet. But I have always been a highly intelligent person since years past. And I have finally become able to make Blackstar's life a living nightmare by doing the only sane thing possible, to join your website and pick you apart piece by tiny piece.

I'm going to draw the torment out as slowly and excruciatingly as possible. That and I'll provide my own views on many a subject. And don't think that you can shut me out because you might notice an unfamiliar line of code in the key script file of your blog system. I have devised a new encryption method that will prevent you from removing it or replacing it with backups without causing your entire database to crash and be deleted. It's what has enabled me to post here as well. Oh don't worry, I'm not going to post rubbish and gibberish. I'm going to slowly torment you while entertaining the people who read about your adventures at the same time. I'm beyond that inferior state of mind. [Emphases added]

Like his superhero alter-ego, the 42 year old man operating under the pseudonyms 'Mark Spittle,' 'The Facer' (a wordplay on 'defacer'), and 'Blackstar' also seems to value his privacy and has, in some aspects, gone to extraordinary lengths in keeping his real identity hidden.

This will to anonymity, while an important aspect of the concept of Free Speech, is not a legitimate shield for those who hide behind it while attempting to destroy someone's business or business relationships, as Spittle/Facer/Blackstar has done.

We have confirmed that the person behind the Spittle/Blackstar/Facer pseudonyms did not receive a law degree from the University of Virginia School of Law as stated on his SpittleandInk site. Multiple conversations with the Washington Post ombudsman, Deborah Howell, also confirms that he never wrote for the Washington Post. Contrary to his SpittleandInk bio, the man behind the alias 'Mark Spittle' never, ever wrote for the Washington Post—under any name at any time. Neither did he ever work as a 'congressional lobbyist for the biotech industry'. (Oops, that SpittleandInk parody disclaimer again!)

It is likely, however, that he attended Long Island University as either a film major or graphic designer and then, shortly after a string of professional failures, moved to the Tampa Bay area of Florida where, (still harboring a dream of being famous for doing just about anything), he now resides as a low-level, self-employed 'internet marketing consultant'. He is also a member of the Tampa-based "Southeast Music Alliance" where he scouts out unknown alternative bands to appear on what is, by any objective measure, his poorly produced podcast.

Now, here's the real kink: In a move classic to those lonely, friendless types begging to be 'found out' he currently publishes pictures of himself on his SpittleandInk website. Below are three of them (Note: all pictures below are as they appear on the SpittleandInk website) :

We'd like to cure the sad Mr. Spittle of his habit of interfering in the business affairs of others, especially with individuals with whom he has no political axe to grind. Update: 8/07/2006 11:23AM 'Mark Spittle' now denies having been 'The Facer' or the online superhero 'Blackstar.' Well, Okay...

Update: 8/07/2006 8:47pm 'Mark Spittle', spinning like a top on methamphetamine, pulls the libelous post injurious to Mrs. DiPippo and admits to having been 'The Facer' and 'Blackstar.' Currently claims to really, really, really be someone who advises some companies doing business with the Defense Department on ISO implementation (He claims the identity, 'Christopher Paris.' He jokes about his children thusly: "This is a particularly bad time for the Spittle family because our youngest son, Bettina, found out his new vagina isn't working properly. So it's back to the hospital for him.")

Sick. I'm sure those 'kids' will be proud of 'Dad' when they grow up and read his stuff. Crazy. After that, I need a shower. And this freak 'Spittle', if he actually has kids, needs a long visit from DCF.

Final update: 8/8/2006 9AM 'Spittle' continues spinning out of control. It is sometimes sad watching a fool self-destruct—but not in this case.

By choosing to publicly reveal his real name as 'Christopher Paris' on his website, (or by adopting the name of the real Christopher Paris and claiming to be the founder and current VP of Operations of Oxebidge Quality Resources), 'Mark Spittle' has either opened himself up to a massive defamation suit from the real Christopher Paris, or has effectively destroyed both his business and himself.

Addendum: This is too good not to post: Christopher Paris, A/K/A "Mark Spittle" is a huge Disney fan, more specifically, he engages in a childish obsession with Disney World's "Haunted Mansion." (Did he move near Orlando, Florida, to be close to Disney World and his beloved Haunted Mansion?) Based on his weird obsession with it, I'll bet he did.

Christopher Paris, A/K/A "Mark Spittle" is so obsessed with the "Haunted Mansion" that he built and runs a fancy website dedicated to it (www.hauntedmansion.info). He is so immersed in that fantasy world that he actually got married on the "Haunted Mansion" grounds.

No doubt Mickey and Goofy and the Seven Dwarves (whom he is also infatuated with) were his esteemed guests.

Check out the "Haunted Mansion" site (www.hauntedmansion.info)—Paris, while attending a $300 per person "Haunted Mansion" dinner, actually got injured when someone dressed up as a 'headless horseman' threw a prop pumpkin at him and nailed him in the chest. Too funny.

VALERIE CAPRONI, United States District Judge:

Plaintiffs G31000 North America, Inc. ("G31000"), Allen Gluck, and Alexis Dali ("Plaintiffs") allege that Christopher Paris and Oxebridge Quality Resources International, LLC ("Oxebridge") (collectively "Defendants") have embarked on a smear campaign to harm the individual plaintiffs and G31000's business.¹ Defendants move to dismiss the case for lack of subject matter jurisdiction under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1), for lack of personal jurisdiction under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(2), and for improper venue under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(3).² Defendants' motion to dismiss the First Amended Complaint ("FAC") is GRANTED because the Court lacks personal jurisdiction.³

MISUSE OF SERVICES BY CHRISTOPHER PARIS

Following our legal notification to LinkedIn, it appears that Mr. Christopher Paris continues to use the LinkedIn platform for his defamation campaign which he has started again me, my business partner Allen Gluck and our non-profit organization called G31000 North America inc.

As notified in our legal notification, Christopher Paris has regularly misuse LinkedIn services (par. 7.2. User agreement) and in particular the following paragraph of the section - 10. LinkedIn "DOs" and "DON'Ts".

- 10.2.1. Act dishonestly or unprofessionally by engaging in unprofessional behavior by posting inappropriate, inaccurate, or objectionable content to LinkedIn;
- 10.2.4. Harass, abuse or harm another person, including sending unwelcomed communications to others using LinkedIn;
- 10.2.8. Upload, post, email, InMail, transmit or otherwise make available or initiate any content that (...) is unlawful, libelous, abusive, obscene, discriminatory or otherwise objectionable;

ACTIONS REQUESTED

I trust that you will take this matter seriously to enforce your policy stated in the LinkedIn "DOs" and "DON'Ts of the User Agreement.

As asked by our legal representative,

"We request on behalf of our client that you enforce your policies against libel, defamation and other LinkedIn "Don'ts" by removing the illegal postings made by the Defendant Christopher Paris that mention "G31000," "Allen Gluck," and "Alex Dali" Your urgent attention to this matter is appreciated."

Today, 24th June 2014, may I request officially LinkedIn to remove all the libelous, abusive, obscene, discriminatory comments posted by Christopher Paris on the LinkedIn platform ?

CHRIS PARIS -VP

Today, Christopher Paris is disclosing the legal case on the LinkedIn platform :

<http://lnkd.in/bu6BtHH>

There are hundred of comments made by Christopher Paris spread in a dozen of LinkedIn groups.

Looking forward to hear from you

Best regards

CHRIS PARIS -VP*From: Christopher Paris <chris@oxebridge.com>*Date: April 13, 2013, 1:47:09 PM EDT*To:*Subject: Ten questions you need to answer for ASQ*Reply-To: chris@oxebridge.com

Here are ten questions you should be answering for your ASQ speech, or in general. I invite you to respond to each via email, as well. If you don't answer them, you leave a vacuum for people to fill in the answers for themselves.

- 1.) You have called ANAB a monopoly. You then entered into an exclusive accreditation arrangement with the Industrial Leaders Group. Whereas ANAB accredits multiple registrars, ILG has only agreed to accredit you. How do you justify those statements?
- 2.) If ILG is an accrediting body, why has it not signed on with the IAF multilateral agreement?
- 3.) You told me that the AS9100 scheme is "like the days when country clubs wouldn't allow Blacks or Jews." Please explain, especially in light of the exclusive arrangement you have with ILG.
- 4.) You also told me that you defended university diploma mills, because the university accreditation system cannot be trusted. You pointed to the example of medical degrees from India, and said, "we don't really know where those Indian doctors got their degrees from." Do you see how this statement can be perceived as racist?
- 5.) You have said that Guberman PMC follows all the "standards and practices" of the IAF for accreditation. Can you name those standards and practices?
- 6.) Accreditation rules have strict limitations against conflicts of interest. But you list an accreditation from AMSN which is owned by Donald Sadoski, who is also listed as the CEO for G-PMC. How do you justify this shared ownership, since it violates the standards and practices?
- 7.) You have released dozens of press releases using paid services, and later claimed these as having been written by others. For example, you said you were "covered by major national and international publications, newspapers and media outlets" and pointed to the Boston Globe. The Globe piece was actually submitted by you through Emailwire.com, a paid press release agency, and was not written by the Boston Globe at all. Please elaborate.

8.) You claimed to me that you have “over 200 clients,” but we could only find about 15 unaccredited G-PMC certificates. In another press release, you claimed G-PMC is the “fastest growing certification body in the world” and that companies were “flocking in droves” to G-PMC. How many actual certificates has G-PMC issued?

9.) Your address is the same as that of The Plastics Factory. You also issued an ISO 9001 certificate to the Plastics Factory. Was this done in exchange for rent?

10.) You recently removed more than half of all the endorsements on your website. You claim that these were published with permission and “on letterhead” but ASQ and Oxebridge discovered that most of these were not published with permission, and in fact were photoshopped using corporate logos without permission. Please elaborate.

This is message for Daryl Guberman

I'll keep it brief.

I read your summary of Mr Paris:

http://dguberman.com/category/main_section/

He contacted me on Facebook, and evidently I'm his new target:

<https://www.oxebridge.com/emma/fake-9001-council-slams-oxebridge-template-kit-links-to-us-tag-176-related-website-with-fake-staff/>

You're correct right up until the point you refer to "depressive behavior". Nope, it's not depression. He's delusional and paranoid, which combined are a symptom of paranoid schizophrenia. Comorbidity is also present. He's motivated by spite, envy and resent. And there may be other issues, too.

I've read he's short and not so long ago filed for bankruptcy protection.

And so on. I admire your polite manner. I've tried to polite, but that may change.

Regards Andrew

LiquidWeb.com
4210 S. Creyts Road
Lansing, Michigan 48917

This letter is to inform your legal and security departments of a user infringing copyrighted material and publishing defamatory information in retaliation of copyright owners that submit DMCA's to protect their artwork and photographs which is being used without permission by your client.

Your client, Christopher Paris, owner of Oxebridge.com recently became a customer of LiquidWeb.com after being challenged and possibly suspended for copyright infringement by his previous host Digital Ocean. Thus, we have reason to believe he possibly moved to LiquidWeb.com as a "safe harbor" for his stolen content. However Oxebridge.com operates offshore in Peru, which is outside of U.S. jurisdiction. Therefore, let it be known, as a U.S. based web provider LiquidWeb may be held liable for hosting copyrighted material owned by a U.S. citizen and infringed upon by a foreign entity.

Copyright law recognizes three types of liability: direct, contributory, and vicarious. Direct infringement occurs when an infringer copies a copyrighted work. Direct liability is a strict liability offense, and thus does not require the infringer to know he or she is infringing. If direct infringement applies, a website provider would be liable if a user posts a copyrighted work that is subsequently downloaded or viewed by others. Therefore, some courts have held website providers directly liable for user-committed copyright infringement.

The Digital Millennium Copyright Act (the "DMCA") has established some safe harbors for website providers from direct infringement if the provider follows the statutory schemes. Among other things, eligibility requires the website provider to (a) adopt a provision in its user agreement regarding the termination of repeat infringers, (b) accommodate and not interfere with "standard" technical measures used by copyright owners to identify and protect copyrighted works, and (c) provide certain information regarding an agent for service of process both on its website and to the Copyright Office.

In addition to copyright infringement, the content on Oxebridge.com is found to be threatening, abusive, harassing, defamatory, libelous, deceptive, fraudulent, and offensive. Although freedom of speech protects the rights of your client to publish such distasteful material, there are exceptions when such material directly harms the reputation of another and/or causes financial losses. We have reason to believe the primary "business model" your client Oxebride.com is to destroy the reputation of its competitors in effort to gain market share.

Section 230(c)(1) of the Communications Decency Act, passed in 1996, says "no provider or user of an interactive computer service shall be treated as a publisher or speaker of any information provided by another information content provider." While this statutory safe harbor has provided some welcome relief to web hosts, it is not a panacea. First, the safe harbor applies only to information "provided by another information content provider." Thus, information provided by employees and, perhaps, some independent contractors (e.g. paid posters) uploading copyrighted material on the website may still create liability. Moreover, the safe harbor applies only to "interactive computer services," a term which is not well-defined in the statute and which may not cover website providers in some cases, particularly if the copyright infringer is offshore outside of U.S. jurisdiction.

Please note your client Oxebridge.com is highly sophisticated and well-connected in IP networking and DNS and uses these skills in attempt to avoid DMCA's from copyright owners and continue his cyberbullying and copyright infringing activities. He uses various nameservers, whois privacy services and rotating IP's to hide his information from Web hosts, copyright owners, and those he defames on his website.

Finally, my organization will be submitting DMCA's on behalf of numerous individuals that have been victims of copyright infringement and defamatory material published by your client. We ask you give this matter the attention it deserves.

Regards,
Don LaBelle

ASQ's Support of Business Defamer Christopher Paris May Be Its Own Downfall

4 Press Release • May 12, 2017 17:30 BST

Milwaukee, Wisconsin -- ASQ leadership, including Randy Dougherty, the Vice President of The ANSI-ASQ National Accreditation Board (ANAB) has been informed numerous times of Mr. Paris engaging in character assassination campaigns on innocent business leaders, quality consultants, accreditation bodies, and others across the country involved in quality management certification. Shamefully, and perhaps unwisely, ASQ has yet to take any action on the matter and continues to provide speaking engagements for Paris.

ISO Watch is investigating why Chris Paris, who recently filed for Chapter 7 Bankruptcy shortly after running into multiple lawsuits with businesses in New York and Ohio (<https://www.plainsite.org/dockets/30qwijh5k/florida-middle-bankruptcy-court/christopher-mark-paris>) is repeatedly awarded speaking engagements on ASQ chapters in Florida, New York, California, and Alabama.

The aerospace innovator SpaceX appears to have recently warned about his exaggerated claims of implementing the company's quality system for AS9100. As a result, Chris Paris no longer promotes himself as a SpaceX "consultant" either on his website or his LinkedIn page. Overnight Paris removed from his website over 20 articles he posted with claims he made about working on SpaceX's quality system. SpaceX apparently does not appreciate the misleading and disturbing material published by Paris on his website Oxebride.com.

Records show Christopher Paris has been reported to authorities in Florida, New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts for publishing false information about his competitors, and filing misleading complaints to two different Attorney Generals. The complaints against Paris cite he is utilizing his website to engage in business defamation, copyright infringement, and publishing fake news, all in attempt to harm the reputation of his competitors, and particularly any organization in competition with the ASQ-ANAB-IAF collaboration. However, ASQ repeatedly gives Paris speaking platforms.

Paris makes it no secret that his mission is to discredit certification bodies and accreditation bodies independent of the ANAB-IAF network. Business owners across the country, particularly minority-owned businesses are scratching their heads in confusion on why the once highly respected American Society of Quality (ASQ), continues to provide a disturbing individual such as Christopher Paris a platform to promote defamatory, anti-competitive propaganda.

The Oxebridge owner has long been promoting the myth that ISO certified businesses in the United States are supposedly "required" to be certified by only an ANAB-IAF affiliated certification and/or accreditation body. However, the myth has been debunked numerous times, most recently by the American Board of Accredited Certifications. In The United States, businesses may choose the certification or accreditation body of their choice. Forcing a businesses to use any particular certification or accreditation body such as ANAB or IAF, is a violation of antitrust laws in the United States.

"Oxebridge with ASQ support is deceiving businesses by claiming ISO certificates need to be issued by a certification body that is member of the IAF, and that is completely false," said Dennis Hernandez, quality manager for a Manhattan firm. He added, "There are thousands of ISO certificates issued to businesses that are not part of the ANAB-IAF collaboration, including certificates accepted by major federal contractors of United States Government."

Mr Hernandez said more businesses across the United States need to take a stand against the The American Society for Quality for willingly and repeatedly protecting and condoning the embarrassing activities of Chris Paris by providing him a platform to promote his smear campaigns against competitors of ANSI-ASQ-ANAB-IAF.

ISO Watch is encouraging business leaders to join together and make a stand against the anti-competitive Communist website Oxebridge.com. Thus far, leadership of ASQ is ignoring the situation because they themselves are promoted in a positive light by Paris as the so-called 'authority' over its competitors." Hernandez said he believes eventually ASQ will be held accountable with multiple lawsuits.

5 ISO Scam Watch

Oxebridge Owner Christopher Paris Exposed As A Fraud By Industry Insiders

6 Press Release • Jun 09, 2017 14:02 BST

Manchester, England, June 9th, 2017 -- On the Internet, nothing is temporary, once content is published, it lives forever in cyberspace, and that is unfortunate for those trying to hide their fraudulent activities such as Christopher Paris, owner of the bogus operation Oxebridge Resources.

Mr. Paris and Oxebridge was exposed for fraud, defamation, and engaging in racially sensitive activities by a small group of quality professionals detailing how he scams businesses and people in the quality community <https://www.scribd.com/document/350525011/Chris-Paris-Owner-of-the-Boqus-Operation-Oxebridge-Resources-Exposed-By-Osteinfo>

The group is calling itself "Osteinfo" and publishes information as 'Public Domain' to enable the truth to be known about one of the biggest con artists in the ISO certification industry -- Christopher Mark Paris (aka Chris Erwin and Mark Spittle). Paris attempted to take down Osteinfo, and in return, the website went viral so the truth can forever be told.

Information about ISO industry fraudsters such as Paris is allegedly being shared among quality professionals, certification bodies, accreditation groups, LinkedIn members, and others that have been a target of verbal attacks, threats, defamation, propaganda, and outright lies published on the hate site Oxebridge websites. The truth is now available forever in Cyberspace at <http://docdro.id/BwMUNDh>

Christopher Mark Paris operates the bogus operation Oxebridge Quality Resources, which has been sued multiple times for publishing false information about quality consultants. In addition to Paris being bankrupt, Osteinfo exposed Mr. Paris as a complete fraud, and provided a compilation of verifiable facts that debunks the false information on the Oxebridge website, which many are calling a 'Hate Site' for the often racially sensitive (sic) information spewed out by its disturbed founder.

Christopher Mark Paris filed for bankruptcy in 2016 after being sued for defamation (knowingly lying) in which he targeted his business competitors. Paris failed to pay creditors over $600,000 (<https://www.plainsite.org/dockets/30qwijh5k/florida-middle-bankruptcy-court/christopher-mark-paris/>)

Chris Paris wants people to believe he is "popular" or some sort of over-seer in the ISO community. However, Oxebridge has no known customers, no subscribers, no clients and not even a single business endorsement on its website. Despite claims (outright lies) made by Paris about his "success", the fact of the matter is Oxebridge has only himself as an employee. Even more strange, the entire business model of his bogus operation Oxebridge is to attack and destroy the reputation of his competitors so he could steal their customers. However, and not surprisingly, he has failed miserably. The rabbit hole Paris fell into apparently keeps getting deeper, and that should be expected for any person engaging in such bizarre activities.

Paris write misleading articles on his website as if he actually is some sort of "authority" in the ISO community. In reality, he is nothing more than a troublemaker envious of the continued success of his competitors despite his failed attempts to destroy them by publishing fake news he writes himself.

CHRIS PARIS -VP

ISO Watch has called for a boycott of all organizations that support the fraudulent and slandering activities of Christopher Paris, a former member of the Communist Party, and a fanatical extremist disguised as a "consultant" for questionable organizations such as Florida-based ISOQAR, Inc. See: As the founder of the hate site Oxebridge, Chris Paris has been shown to be nothing more than a propagandist for certification bodies belonging to the brotherhood of the International Accreditation Forum (IAF). ISO Watch and its affiliated groups shall remain committed in exposing all individuals and organizations engaging in anti-competitive business practices and/or racial discrimination on any level. Next up, Mary Winch.

BOYCOTT ANAB, IAF & ISOQAR!

This is a call to boycott all organizations that support the bigot Christopher Paris, an ISO fanatical extremist for questionable organizations such as Florida-based ISOQAR, Inc. Records show ISOQAR is associated with the infamous ANAB (ANSI-ASQ National Accreditation Board).

Christopher Paris operates the hate site Oxebridge Resources, and is a propagandist for certification bodies belonging to the brotherhood of the International Accreditation Forum (IAF).

Boycott these organizations and send a message to the ISO certification community that discrimination will not be tolerated!

By the way, I believe AGS and its accreditation body AIAO are the same people.

Mr. Guberman:

In your press release, you announce that G-PMC is "fully accredited" and then go on to say that the company is "independent" and not actually accredited by an ISO accreditation body. You then argue against such accreditation.

In looking over your certificates and credentials, none of the accreditations claimed by G-PMC are actually authorized to accredit ISO 9001 certificates, so the claim that G-PMC is "fully accredited" is curious.

I invite you to explain.

I am requesting the appropriate contact in your Legal or HR department to discuss the following matter. Your Carrollton TX Quality Manager, Jack Oliver, appears simultaneously as an Advisory Board member for G-PMC, an Advisory Board member of ABAC, and a Food Safety Inspector for the National Food Safety Council. This is problematic because:

1. None of the organizations actually exist, in that they are not legally registered in the states they operate
2. The organization G-PMC claims independent accreditation from the others, but they share the same ownership and advisors, such as Mr. Oliver, in violation of international accreditation rules
3. All the organizations are under investigation for fraud in Connecticut for having begun to issue suspect food safety certificates to restaurants

G-PMC issues self-accredited certificates for everything from ISO 9001 to medical marijuana, medical implants, Kosher foods, aircraft component manufacturing, restaurant inspections, minority woman-owned business, and veteran-owned businesses. The certificates then allege "independent" accreditation by the other two organizations, but all three share the same management, in violation of international accreditation rules. Mr. Oliver then appears as complicit in all these activities. Links:

- Oliver as Board member for ABAC
 - Oliver as Audit Manager for G-PMC
 - Oliver as Food Safety Inspector for NFSC
- It is not clear why a QA Manager from your company would simultaneously appear on the staffs of these three organizations. It is also not clear, given that Mr. Oliver has no experience in food safety, as to how he can conduct Food Safety audits of any kind. We are in discussions with the Connecticut Attorney General's office about this, as there is a concern the public's health is at risk. G-PMC routinely issues suspect certificates to any company willing to pay. In one case, G-PMC issued a firearm manufacturing certificate which alleged compliance to a standard that the client admitted they had never seen, because G-PMC admitted it had not even been written. In another case, G-PMC agreed to provide ISO 9001 certification to a fictional company that claimed to produce life vests made of cement, designed to kill the wearer. G-PMC itself boasts a bogus ISO 9001 certificate from Romania, which lists its address as a PO Box, and claims it to be a full manufacturing company, not a certification body. It's not clear why NOSCO would want its employees involved in this network of suspect behavior. Please confirm that Mr. Oliver has allowed his image and name to be used by these organizations, and let me know what action, if any, NOSCO intends to take. If Mr. Oliver has been victimized, or if NOSCO otherwise agrees, I can connect you with the appropriate contact within the CT Attorney General's office who is investigating this network.

There aren't many depths that Guberman and LaBelle won't descend to. They have published racist comments about my wife. They have posted homophobic comments, insisting "Chris Paris is a feminine man," and literally using insults like "Chrissy the sissy," as if we were still in a 1950's fourth grade class. They've accused me of Communism, antisemitism, and — most bizarrely of all — insulting a "supporter of veterans." Daryl Guberman, who never spent a minute in the military, sells a fake "VOB9009" certification to veteran-owned businesses, meaning he's ripping off veterans, and once screamed obscenities on the phone to one of my clients, a former US Navy SEAL, and wants to somehow claim he's a "supporter of veterans." Guberman's wife, Dr. Felice Guberman, is a managing agent of Guberman PMC-LLC, and previously worked with the Veterans Administration; she now works for the Connecticut Dept. of Mental Health and Addiction Services, and a formal ethics complaint is being prepared against her for gross violation of their rules of conduct.

Dr. Felice Guberman as testament to the Secretary of State of CT link above is not the agent of the business.

Re. Accusatory letter from Mr. Chris Paris Oxebidge -to one of your employees refuted.

It is apparent, performing a bit of research on Mr. Paris and listening to your tenured employee about this film-flam would have been the practical course of action. My team uncovered that "EVENTS BY AJ" resides not just at the same location but is Mr. Paris's address as well.

We cannot answer nor are allowed to answer your requests since the addresses are the same thus we have concluded a scam was perpetrated on management. This was done by Mr. Paris who has various alias's and addresses, actually resides in Peru most of the time.

His impetus was to have management dismiss Mr. Oliver from his duties at Nosco permanently, thus reveling in these actions. Joaquim, does not get any sort of remuneration or actually perform any duties and or titles that would even be construed as a monetary gain or critical to the validity of what our business does. To further quell any anxieties, GUBERMAN-PMC, LLC with G-PMC, LLC registrars have been in business for 5 years and do not have others drive our destiny or make decisions for us as I am sure you don't as NOSCO.

Attention: Management of Nosco (Joaquim Oliver)

Re. Refutation of the Accusatory and defaming letter from Mr. Chris Paris of Oxebridge Quality Registrars, Inc. - regarding one of your employees.

It should have been apparent to you that performing sufficient research on Mr. Paris and listening to your tenured employee about this film-flam artist would have been the practical course of fair and impartial action. My team uncovered that "EVENTS BY AJ" resides not just at the same address, but is also one of Mr. Paris's addresses as well.

We cannot answer, nor, upon counsel, are allowed to answer, your requests, since among other issues concerning the individual Paris, the addresses for both entities are the same. This is a common scamming technique. Based upon our investigatory knowledge, we have concluded that this Christopher Paris has also perpetrated a scam on your management. Relying upon past experience with this scam artist, this was done by Mr. Paris who has various aliases and addresses, but in reality actually resides and hides in Peru most of the time.

CHRIS PARIS -VP

LEGAL NOTICE

His impetus was to have your management dismiss Mr. Oliver from his duties at Nosco permanently, to harm Guberman PMC, LLC and to succeed and revel in his continued harassment of our business activities.

For your information, Joaquim, does not receive any remuneration or perform any duties, or hold any titles that could be construed as providing a monetary gain or critical to the validity of our business operations. GUBERMAN-PMC, LLC with G-PMC constitute business entities of long standing and well recognized good reputation in the Quality Community. His outside of work association with Guberman is based upon his personal friendship of longstanding and in no way impinges upon his work activities with Nosco. Joaquim's freedom of association is completely unrestrained except in the sole regard of his outside activities that could possibly impact his employment with Nosco as an ethical matter, and this is most certainly not the case. As for this stipulation, he is as free as you are to associate and interact with others outside of his employment hours and duties with Nosco. It is an injustice for Nosco management to attempt to control his outside-of-work affairs while simultaneously accepting at face value accusatory and defaming information without due diligence and appropriate investigation on your part.

Gentlemen & Ladies,

I am Daryl Guberman, and I have a critically serious Google related character assassination problem. The vicious perpetrator is relentlessly using the Google Search Engine over a number of years as a tool, and stacking his web sites with detractions intended to destroy my good personal reputation and also my business. This began in 2013. At first I ignored it, hoping that it would go away. It hasn't. It continues with unswerving ferocity. I have exhausted methods trying to put an end to his behavior. Unless he is delisted from the Search Engine and banned from Google, he will deliberately continue to derive perverse pleasure and tangible success in ruining me. I appeal to you as just about my last hope. Please consider the following:

His approach to destroying my good name works this way. Anyone searching for my name, Daryl Guberman, on the Google Search Engine will find that his verbal poison is always listed first before my true name in related locations, or if this is not possible, then as close as possible to my name. These serve as brief examples.

Guberman-PMC Trumps 147 Competitors As Top ISO Specialists Nationwide

CHRIS PARIS -VP

The ballots have been counted and Connecticut-based Guberman-PMC, LLC wins in a landslide as the 'Best ISO & Quality Consultants in the Country'

(PresseBox) (Bridgeport, CT, 23.01.2013) The famous author Douglas Adams once said, " To give real service you must add something which cannot be bought or measured with money, and that is sincerity and integrity." That same philosophy continues to be pertinaciously followed by Guberman-PMC, LLC, which enjoyed phenomenal growth last year catapulting the company and its founder Daryl Guberman into national prominence in the quality arena. Today, the American Machine Shops Network (AMSN), the largest custom manufacturing group in the country announced its members decisively elected Guberman-PMC as the best choice in 2013 for ISO certification.

According to AMSN, 147 other quality management and consultation firms nationwide were considered for the distinguished honor with Guberman-PMC getting the majority of votes by a wide margin. AMSN said members were clearly impressed with the company's collective abilities as a quality specialist, principles of business integrity, certification affordability and its growing number of customer endorsements. AMSN president Donald LaBelle said Guberman-PMC has evolved into one of the most sought after quality specialists in the nation because of their wide scope capabilities, personalized service and proven background in helping companies achieve value-added ISO-9001:2008, 13485, AS9100, and TS16949, ISO-17025, ISO-14000 & Nadcap compliance and certification along with direct support from the President of the company Daryl Guberman, who makes himself personally available to every client.

After turning 50 a few months ago Mr. Guberman said he assessed his life and now believes he knows his purpose. "Philosophers such as Socrates, Aristotle, and so many others have pondered the secret of life, and I'm now convinced life is about sharing one's knowledge and experience, to elevate, assist and educate others," said Guberman. He continued, "It is to be kind, caring and thoughtful, it is to have integrity when others do not, it is to be always striving to improve and be the best one can be while maintaining the most honest of intentions and moral fiber, even when others do not." He concluded, "It is this same philosophy in which Guberman-PMC, LLC serves its customers with a devoted commitment to honesty, integrity and ethical principles that is unfortunately often missing in today's quality community."

Concerning your contact and what I my personnel uncovered-

Unfortunately, the name 'Jorge David' is being used by a known scam artist whose real identity is Christopher Paris. Mr. Paris defrauds innocent businesses by claiming their quality certificates need to be accredited by ANSI-ASQ National Accreditation Board (ANAB) and/or the International Accreditation Forum (IAF). This is of course misleading and illegal. Mr. Paris has lied over the phone and via email to businesses about his true identity, and about the validity of their certifications in attempt to defraud them out of their money See: <http://www.g-pmc.com/fraud-alerts-and-information/> Local and federal authorities have been contacted about Christoper Paris and an investigation is underway.

Mr. Paris has a strange fascination with me - he constantly writes on his blog about me -- posting my picture and videos throughout his website, stalks me on social media, posts press clippings of me on his linkedin page, and comments about my physique. He is a disturbed individual.

Therefore, because Chris Paris uses the aliases Jorge David as well as others, I've decided not to communicate with you further. All communications from you will go unanswered.

Well... this is certainly incredible and outrageous! By all means I need to take action, I had no idea someone was using MY name. I am not sure you will receive this message from me, as I see that you will start blocking my emails as a precaution. I will attempt my call on Monday anyway, but if you have doubts about me, which is legitimate, that's fine, I have other sources of information so I can manage.

In any event, if you contact the ERM Group, they can confirm I have been the Sustainable Development Manager for the Miami office for the last 6 years until mid-March 2014 when I could not agree with the new management's policies. I am now back with my own original company Qualitek as Managing Director. I have no aliases or other names and my passport number can be verified as well, I am a Chilean citizen, with permanent residence in the US, transferred by the ERM Group as former ERM Chile Managing Director to take that position in the US in Miami.

Dear Mr. Dougherty,

I write this to you with sincere hope that you can vanquish what has transpired to me this past month. I have been harassed and even called "anti-Semitic" by an individual that on his linked in page claims to be a "Senior Member of the ASQ". His name is Chris Paris who last was a member in 2006. I am Jewish.

Most recently I spoke at the local ASQ meeting April 17th 2013. Both he and Mary Winch (Long Island Chapter of the ASQ) wrote in a blogs, internet website and email to interrupt, disrupt and disparage and stop me from giving my speech. I must commend the New Haven Chairman of the ASQ Jay Krishnamurthy and Southern CT Chairman Tony Pedro for having the wear withal to not place a stop to the meeting (I was a member of the ASQ from 2001-2006-Chapter sustaining- Southern CT).

Chris and Mary do not represent the ASQ and ANAB brand in a good light do in part to the racial overtones, which have been published concerning me and attempting to place a halt to my livelihood. His reputation along with Mary's is quite a murky one. I am fully cognizant of the fact ASQ and ANAB try to appear as separate entities so I write you also in hope you can pass this letter to someone who can really do something both morally and ethically correct. By them being part of the whole, the representation they exude degrades the fabric of the organization and thus tainting the qualities of the ASQ and ANAB.

I believe as the CEO of my company please Google "Daryl Guberman". You will also find some articles written by Mr. Paris calling disparaging me. My belief has always been to make quality better there must be more than one accreditation body.

Attached to this letter is a myriad of articles and blogs that illustrate what I have stated. Mr. Paris went so far as to say I used my mother's own death and the fact that I invited former President Bill Clinton to the April meeting! As a business ploy. Bill and Hillary spent a lot of time in 1971 over my parents' house.

Certificate Mill G-PMC: Accreditation is Antisemitic

Published by Christopher Paris on April 4, 2013

In my series of articles The Indefensibles I point out the simultaneously hilarious and ethically void behavior of the world's unaccredited ISO 9001 and AS9100 registrars, or “certificate mills.” I am working on two more such pieces, but this bit couldn't wait.

Daryl Guberman operates a certificate mill called G-PMC from Stratford CT. In a breathless, apparently self-written press release from last August, he announced that “In the World of ISO, He's It: Daryl Guberman Reveals Why Quality Is out of Control” and “Daryl Guberman is bringing new life to manufacturers nationwide by exposing the disarray and anti-competitive monopoly that is strangling quality.”

Well, if someone is going to claim to be the savior of ISO 9001, I want in. So I reached out. Specifically, I wanted some clarity on the following contradictory statements:

<http://www.oxebridge.com/emma/?p=1427> / web link to this page

10/26/2013

In recent months, manufacturers have been flocking in droves to Guberman-PMC, LLC to acquire their fully-accredited ISO certificate issued by G-PMC, a stand alone registrar.

In the same piece Mr. Guberman goes on at length to complain against the accreditation he just took credit for.

Guberman said he believes the ISO certification process was never intended to have all or most registration companies overseen by a single accreditation body, which he warns results in a monopoly. According to Guberman, there are no standards that he knows of by which a single certification body can define who can accredit whom, nor should such protectionism be legislated, whether it be directly or indirectly as a repugnant means to safeguard the profits and interests of a conglomerate.

Reading that, I wrote Mr. Guberman a short email asking him about how he can claim “fully accredited” and then go on to dismiss accreditation. I also asked why he was claiming accreditation from organizations that don’t actually offer it, like the “Industrial Leaders Group” or the “American Raw Materials.” (More on those dubious organizations in my upcoming piece.)

I am not kidding with what I am about to say. The email was sent 12:39 PM, and I received a phone call from Mr. Guberman at 12:41 — literally two minutes later. I didn’t have the chance to record it, or even tell him why I was asking for the information, before I was met with a 500 MPH flood of conspiracy theory data. All I have is my hastily written notes.

Here’s the big takeaway. During the conversation, Mr. Guberman said he was frustrated when he tried to get the unaccredited G-PMC accepted into OASIS, the AS9100 database, which would then allow his company to be recognized by aerospace primes. The folks at OASIS told him he can’t, because it is not accredited by ANAB. He told the representative that forcing ANAB accreditation onto AS registrars was tantamount to “the days when country clubs wouldn’t allow Blacks or Jews.”

Yeah, it took all of three minutes for Mr. Guberman to go there. Seriously, what is with the unaccredited registrars and insensitive religious metaphor?

It just went downhill from there, if you can imagine it:

- He defended unaccredited “diploma mill” universities, on the basis that the university accreditation system is corrupt. In a quasi-racist twist, he said anyone should be able to issue medical degrees since we “don’t really know where those Indian doctors got their degrees from.” When pressed to answer if he would personally undergo surgery with a non-degreed physician, he refused to answer.

<http://www.oxebridge.com/emma/?p=1427> / web link to this page

- Since he brought up Judaism, I asked him if he knew that rabbis have to be certified. Heading off into what some might label an antisemitic argument of his own, he argued that Kosher food certification was fake because rabbis don't really do anything when they certify food.
- He said his company complied with "over 300" of the IAF "standards and practices," but when I asked him to name one, he couldn't. When I mentioned ISO 17021, he hadn't heard of it, and said this was because he "has too much going on" and that "knowing all those standards is impossible."
- He reiterated that ANAB was a world monopoly, which is apparent in his press release as well. He believes this, but only because he had never heard of UKAS or INMETRO any of ANAB's many competitors, and had no idea that there was more than one accreditation body in the world.

When I asked him to answer my original question ("how can you simultaneously claim full accreditation, then argue against it?") he answered with a metaphysical question: "well, what is accreditation anyway?" When I pointed out that he hadn't actually answered the question, and only posed another one, he said, "Well, I'm Jewish, that's what we do."

Not wanting to get branded an anti-Semite like those Holocaust war criminals over at IAQG, I let it drop.

When it comes to inglorious bastards, Daryl Guberman is it.

Guberman-PMC Trumps 147 Competitors As Top ISO Specialists Nationwide

The ballots have been counted and Connecticut-based Guberman-PMC, LLC wins in a landslide as the 'Best ISO & Quality Consultants in the Country'

(PresseBox) (Bridgeport, CT, 23.01.2013) The famous author Douglas Adams once said, " To give real service you must add something which cannot be bought or measured with money, and that is sincerity and integrity." That same philosophy continues to be pertinaciously followed by Guberman-PMC, LLC, which enjoyed phenomenal growth last year catapulting the company and its founder Daryl Guberman into national prominence in the quality arena. Today, the American Machine Shops Network (AMSN), the largest custom manufacturing group in the country announced its members decisively elected Guberman-PMC as the best choice in 2013 for ISO certification.

According to AMSN, 147 other quality management and consultation firms nationwide were considered for the distinguished honor with Guberman-PMC getting the majority of votes by a wide margin. AMSN said members were clearly impressed with the company's collective abilities as a quality specialist, principles of business integrity, certification affordability and its growing number of customer endorsements. AMSN president Donald LaBelle said Guberman-PMC has evolved into one of the most sought after quality specialists in the nation because of their wide scope capabilities, personalized service and proven background in helping companies achieve value-added ISO-9001:2008, 13485, AS9100, and TS16949, ISO-17025, ISO-14000 & Nadcap compliance and certification along with direct support from the President of the company Daryl Guberman, who makes himself personally available to every client.

After turning 50 a few months ago Mr. Guberman said he assessed his life and now believes he knows his purpose. "Philosophers such as Socrates, Aristotle, and so many others have pondered the secret of life, and I'm now convinced life is about sharing one's knowledge and experience, to elevate, assist and educate others," said Guberman. He continued, "It is to be kind, caring and thoughtful, it is to have integrity when others do not, it is to be always striving to improve and be the best one can be while maintaining the most honest of intentions and moral fiber, even when others do not." He concluded, "It is this same philosophy in which Guberman-PMC, LLC serves its customers with a devoted commitment to honesty, integrity and ethical principles that is unfortunately often missing in today's quality community."

About AMSN

The American Machine Shops Network (<http://www.MFGpartners.net>) specializes in promoting US-based manufacturers of machined parts, fabricated components, precision products and molds. AMSN is the largest network of custom manufacturers in the USA designed to help companies, engineers and others find the most suitable vendors specializing in CNC machining, fabrication, molding, prototyping and other services. About

Gentlemen & Ladies,

I am Daryl Guberman, and I have a critically serious Google related character assassination problem. The vicious perpetrator is relentlessly using the Google Search Engine over a number of years as a tool, and stacking his web sites with detractions intended to destroy my good personal reputation and also my business. This began in 2013. At first I ignored it, hoping that it would go away. It hasn't. It continues with unswerving ferocity. I have exhausted methods trying to put an end to his behavior. Unless he is delisted from the Search Engine and banned from Google, he will deliberately continue to derive perverse pleasure and tangible success in ruining me. I appeal to you as just about my last hope. Please consider the following:

His approach to destroying my good name works this way. Anyone searching for my name, Daryl Guberman, on the Google Search Engine will find that his verbal poison is always listed first before my true name in related locations, or if this is not possible, then as close as possible to my name. These serve as brief examples.

"This article appears with written permission of Daryl Guberman, who has granted Oxbridge unrestricted rights to report about the scandals surrounding his organization, G-PMC LLC, for reasons which are entirely his own.

The self-accredited certificate mill G-PMC LLC, operated by Daryl Guberman and Donald LaBelle, is now claiming it is, itself, ISO 9001:2015 certified. The certificate was provided to G-PMC by a group called Generic Management Services, which claims an office in Delhi India, but boasts Romanian accreditation with the Accreditation Body RENAR.

Guberman is Jewish, but has denounced his religion as "guilty of mass murder" and "perpetrators of these elaborate extortion schemes," two common arguments typically used by anti-Semitic white supremacists.

The fact that Guberman has purchased a certificate from an Indian company is also ironic, as Guberman has made racist comments against Indians in the past,

The use of IAF and RENAR logos on a counterfeit certificate is illegal in the United States.

If you have been victimized by G-PMC or any of its organizations, contact Oxbridge for possible assistance." -www.Oxbridge.com

(SEE PAGES 5-38 FOR ARTICLES CONCERN myself and business, friends, family even my diseased dog since April 2013 to present)

These and many more are examples of the relentless slander perpetrated by Christopher Paris both on his Oxbridge web site and on the internet at every opportunity to load the internet with anti-

GUBERMAN-PMC,LLC.

Daryl Guberman slander with the intent to permanently damage his good name and to destroy his business. As a competitor to Guberman PMC, LLC, Christopher Paris unlawfully copies photos and other material from the Guberman web site to add to his slanderous attacks. Thus, whenever a Google search is made for Daryl Guberman or his business, Guberman PMC, LLC. The slander and hate directed toward him come up either first or in close association with a search intended to find information on Daryl Guberman.

Having exhausted all other possible alternatives to prevent this slander, I request that Google delist Christopher Paris and his Oxbridge listing from the Google Search engine to provide relief from this criminal activity. Please advise me of your action at your earliest possible opportunity.

Sincerely,

Daryl Guberman-CEO

Guberman-PMC Trumps 147 Competitors As Top ISO Specialists Nationwide

The ballots have been counted and Connecticut-based Guberman-PMC, LLC wins in a landslide as the 'Best ISO & Quality Consultants in the Country'

(PresseBox) (Bridgeport, CT, 23.01.2013) The famous author Douglas Adams once said, " To give real service you must add something which cannot be bought or measured with money, and that is sincerity and integrity." That same philosophy continues to be pertinaciously followed by Guberman-PMC, LLC, which enjoyed phenomenal growth last year catapulting the company and its founder Daryl Guberman into national prominence in the quality arena. Today, the American Machine Shops Network (AMSN), the largest custom manufacturing group in the country announced its members decisively elected Guberman-PMC as the best choice in 2013 for ISO certification.

According to AMSN, 147 other quality management and consultation firms nationwide were considered for the distinguished honor with Guberman-PMC getting the majority of votes by a wide margin. AMSN said members were clearly impressed with the company's collective abilities as a quality specialist, principles of business integrity, certification affordability and its growing number of customer endorsements. AMSN president Donald LaBelle said Guberman-PMC has evolved into one of the most sought after quality specialists in the nation because of their wide scope capabilities, personalized service and proven background in helping companies achieve value-added ISO-9001:2008, 13485, AS9100, and TS16949, ISO-17025, ISO-14000 & Nadcap compliance and certification along with direct support from the President of the company Daryl Guberman, who makes himself personally available to every client.

After turning 50 a few months ago Mr. Guberman said he assessed his life and now believes he knows his purpose. "Philosophers such as Socrates, Aristotle, and so many others have pondered the secret of life, and I'm now convinced life is about sharing one's knowledge and experience, to elevate, assist and educate others," said Guberman. He continued, "It is to be kind, caring and thoughtful, it is to have integrity when others do not, it is to be always striving to improve and be the best one can be while maintaining the most honest of intentions and moral fiber, even when others do not." He concluded, "It is this same philosophy in which Guberman-PMC, LLC serves its customers with a devoted commitment to honesty, integrity and ethical principles that is unfortunately often missing in today's quality community."

About AMSN

The American Machine Shops Network (<http://www.MFGpartners.net>) specializes in promoting US-based manufacturers of machined parts, fabricated components, precision products and molds. Here are ten questions you should be answering for your ASQ speech, or in general. I invite you to respond to each via email, as well. If you don't answer them, you leave a vacuum for people to fill in the answers for themselves.

- 1.) You have called ANAB a monopoly. You then entered into an exclusive accreditation arrangement with the Industrial Leaders Group. Whereas ANAB accredits multiple registrars, ILG has only agreed to accredit you. How do you justify those statements?
- 2.) If ILG is an accrediting body, why has it not signed on with the IAF multilateral agreement?
- 3.) You told me that the AS9100 scheme is “like the days when country clubs wouldn’t allow Blacks or Jews.” Please explain, especially in light of the exclusive arrangement you have with ILG.
- 4.) You also told me that you defended university diploma mills, because the university accreditation system cannot be trusted. You pointed to the example of medical degrees from India, and said, “we don’t really know where those Indian doctors got their degrees from.” Do you see how this statement can be perceived as racist?
- 5.) You have said that Guberman PMC follows all the “standards and practices” of the IAF for accreditation. Can you name those standards and practices?
- 6.) Accreditation rules have strict limitations against conflicts of interest. But you list an accreditation from AMSN which is owned by Donald Sadoski, who is also listed as the CEO for G-PMC. How do you justify this shared ownership, since it violates the standards and practices?
- 7.) You have released dozens of press releases using paid services, and later claimed these as having been written by others. For example, you said you were “covered by major national and international publications, newspapers and media outlets” and pointed to the Boston Globe. The Globe piece was actually submitted by you through Emailwire.com, a paid press release agency, and was not written by the Boston Globe at all. Please elaborate.

8.) You claimed to me that you have “over 200 clients,” but we could only find about 15 unaccredited G-PMC certificates. In another press release, you claimed G-PMC is the “fastest growing certification body in the world” and that companies were “flocking in droves” to G-PMC. How many actual certificates has G-PMC issued?

9.) Your address is the same as that of The Plastics Factory. You also issued an ISO 9001 certificate to the Plastics Factory. Was this done in exchange for rent?

10.) You recently removed more than half of all the endorsements on your website. You claim that these were published with permission and “on letterhead” but ASQ and Oxebridge discovered that most of these were not published with permission, and in fact were photoshopped using corporate logos without permission. Please elaborate.

Mr. LaBelle:

There seems to be a problem with my account. We released a press release yesterday to announce how Oxebridge was voted "Top ISO Consulting Firm in the World," but the story has since disappeared, and a refund was issued to my PayPal. Don't worry too much, though, I did screencap it and intend on releasing it through some other PR distribution services, most of which I learned about through Mr. Daryl Guberman.

Nevertheless, I have reviewed the IndustrialPR.net Terms of Service, and nothing in the press release violated those terms in spirit or in fact. If I am wrong, please point to the specific violations.

It's curious because our story appears to be as legitimate as the story you ran regarding Mr. Guberman being voted, by your company, as the Top ISO Expert Nationwide, a story that has appeared more than once through your network. In that story you allege that a voting process took place and Mr. Guberman came out on top over 147 firms. Since you have provided no evidence that this voting ever occurred, I suspect that story is as valid as the one where I allege that I was elected to a far greater position, that of World's Best ISO Consultant in the Entire World. And King of Earth.

Needless to say, as King of Earth, I am a little upset that my reign is off to such a poor start.

Of course, if you can provide any evidence that this voting of Mr. Guberman actually occurred, that would go a long way to proving that your story was factual and certainly make mine look more fanciful. I would need to see, specifically, the names of the other 146 firms, and the vote tally. Without that, it appears that IndustrialPR.net is publishing science fiction, and only that which benefits its business partners. That could cause some problems with your reputation, if it were to get out.... say, through a paid press release service operated by a competitor. Because as you and Mr. Guberman well know, if it appears in a press release, it must be true.

If I have misunderstood, and it's all a technical glitch, please restore my account, and the press release. We can't let the world suffer in darkness without knowing of my greatness.

Daryl et al,

As the evidence below proves, you and your organization have agreed to provide ISO 9001 certification services to a fictional company that, according to the documentation provided to you, designs cement life jackets and measures the product's quality by testing "fatalities." The data provided to you indicated that objects in water can both sink and rise at the same time, which is impossible under the laws of physics. The documentation included various other clues that no one in your organization could suss out, including that the management meeting was held on "April 31st" (there are only 30 days in April), that the Quality Manager's name was "Jack T Pozzolan" (pozzolan is another word for cement, so this literally meant "cement jacket"), the VP of Engineering had a name that sounded like "Sandy Bottoms," the company's name was "LifeSink" and the product was called "TruSink." The properties of the "SolidCore 2.0" inner lining included cement (silicates and ferrites) and lead shot, and yet the photo was of a life jacket. The principle of "negative buoyancy" discussed in the documentation literally means sinking.

Nevertheless, despite your claims to comply with 17021, your organization agreed to provide services to a company you could not verify was real, that allegedly sold products designed to kill the user, based on principles that a middle school science student could have told you do not exist.

This test has been submitted to a number of properly accredited registrars, as well as a number of unaccredited (or, in your case, self-accredited) certificate mills. So far, in all cases, the properly accredited organizations refused to provide services, while 100% of the certificate mills agreed to do so.

This proves that accreditation works to keep the public safe, and that unaccredited/self-accredited mills pose a direct and immediate danger to the public. It also proves that the IAF matrixed accreditation scheme works, and that organizations such as yours working outside of that matrix do not comply with ISO 17021, no matter what they say in their marketing materials, making a case for serious deceptive advertising practices and fraud under both state and FTC trade rules.

In your case, the problem is exacerbated by your intentional misrepresentation of "requirements" which imply that not only the fictional company LifeSink would need certification by your organization, but all of its suppliers as well. This appears to be yet another serious violation of accreditation rules, as it constitutes an unethical -- and possibly illegal -- coercive attempt to generate additional business for your company through intentional misrepresentation of requirements.

My organization has no financial or other ties to any accredited certification body, ANAB or any IAF accreditation body whatsoever, and we are prepared to prove this in court. These actions are taken in the public interest, to highlight the risks, dangers and possibly illegal actions of certificate mills, and to advocate for their becoming accredited by objective third parties to international standards. This is not an attempt to put the mills out of business, but instead to "get them legal." Furthermore, this experiment will be submitted as evidence in upcoming testimony before state and federal officials, calling for increased legislation of unaccredited, or self-accredited, certificate mills.

The Thomas Payne thing isn't going to work. You are leaving significant forensic evidence behind to trace these back to you, along with the "anonomousASQ" emails and RR posts. I advise you and LaBelle to have your stuff looked over by your attorney, as they are likely to counsel you on how your actions are bad, bad ideas that can only get you in trouble. As you can see, I don't tolerate this kind of thing, and there's no hiding behind any anonymous email provider or website that will work.

FYI: I won the case on the grounds of jurisdiction. I didn't lose it. The rest of your post was also libelous as it presented false data as fact, so you will be held accountable. You're just lucky that Marc is going first.

Or is he?

Mr. Maqbool:

Just to alert you, Amplitech is named in our latest reporting on G-PMC, which was found to have fraudulently fabricated their own ISO 9001 certificate, including the logos used on the certificate given to you by Daryl Guberman. The article appears here:

It's not my intent to drag Amplitech into the ongoing spat Guberman has with my firm, but the fraud specifically involves your company, and is thus newsworthy. Our company has for over 10 years reported on fraud and conflicts within the ISO scheme.

I have not heard back from you on this matter. Please let me know if there is someone else within NOSCO I should be contacting.

It's furthermore been discovered that Mr. Oliver is now lending his signature as "Credentialing Director, Director of Audit Programs" for a certification called PR9001, for publicity firms. One such certificate has appeared online, here. It is also a product of G-PMC and ABAC.

It is therefore unclear how Mr. Oliver has time to perform all these duties and simultaneously work for NOSCO. Again, it could well be that his name is being used without his permission.

Please advise.
